Friendships ... a lasting tradition!

Coming to college for the first time can surface uncertain thoughts about what to expect from "college life."

Together, students at Co-Lin are given many new experiences.

Many of them soon depend on each other to "get them through the rough times." And also "share the good times," signaling the beginning of a beautiful friendship.

Spending time with friends is important in a college student's life. Learning to express individual ideas with other students and then working together to accomplish goals, is a step toward a successful future.

Although many students come and go through the years, friendships made here at Co-Lin will last forever.

Dorm Life - The Tradition Continues

Students living in the dormitories experience many advantages from living on campus. Living so close to class allows more time for sleep. It also provides easy access to school events.

Some changes have occurred within the dormitory system at Copiah-Lincoln Community College. As part of his New Year's Resolution, Dean Ray Ishee, dean of student services, has worked extremely hard to improve the quality of life for dormitory students. As an experiment, males were allowed to enter the courtyard of Stevens and Stevens Annex dormitories Monday through Thursday from noon until 4 p.m. Another policy being tested involves permitting males to enter women's dormitory rooms between 4 and 6 p.m. on Sundays to help with 'moving in'.

"Dorm life is all about compromise, confusion, companionship, and a closeness that goes far beyond campus grounds."

Josie Sanders

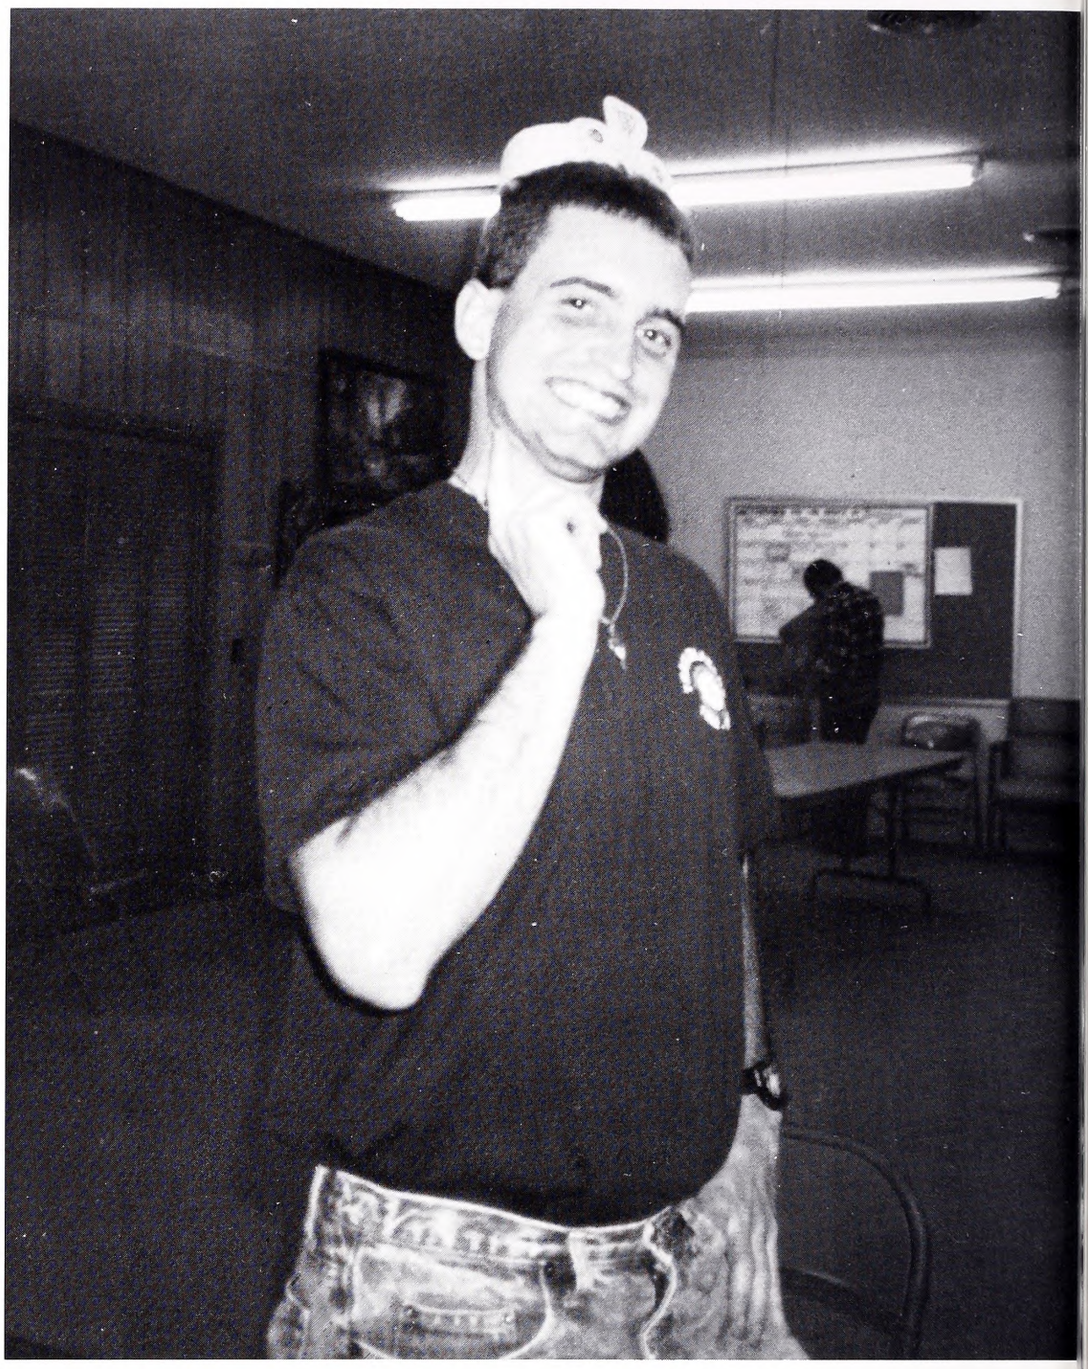
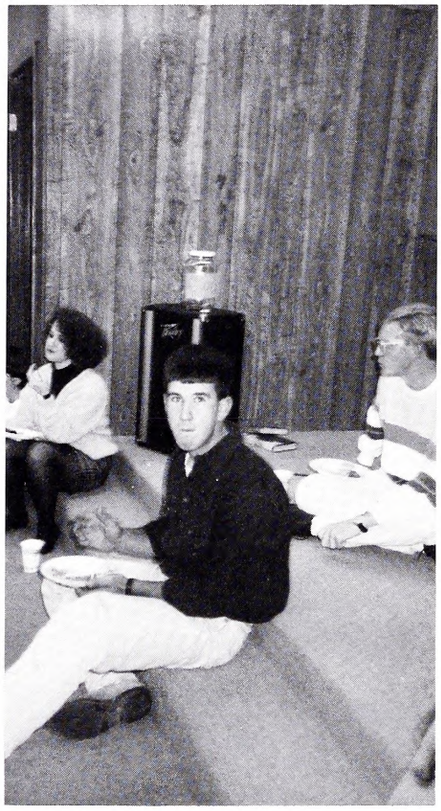
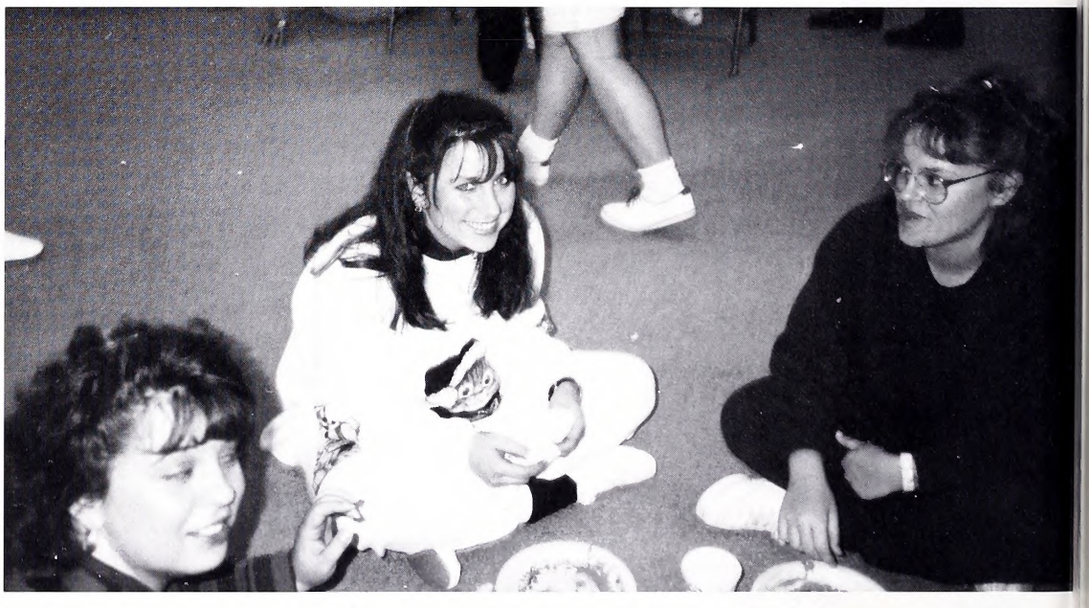
B.S.U. President Vic Granger of Stronghope anxiously awaits for B.S.U. to begin.

Surprisingly looking at the camera, Scott Smith of Brookhaven is caught with his mouth full of food.





Seen chawing down at the Dicherson's children's village party hosted by the B.S.U. are Melissa Malley of Magee, Sheryl Williams of Monticello, and Laura Reynolds of Robinwood.



B.S.U. - A lasting tradition for over 25 years

Helping the time pass before B.S.U., Heather Palmer of Stronghope, visits with her friends in the dorm.

The Baptist Student Union is a place for college students to join together in fun and Christian fellowship to reassure our daily faith in the Lord to overcome daily triumphs. Meeting Mondays and Wednesdays at 6 p.m., students are enabled to create friendships that continue to grow even after they leave Co-Lin. Throughout the years the Baptist Student Union has been involved in such events as nursing home ministries and revivals in which guest speakers are invited. All students are invited to these events.

"B.S.U. is friendship, direction, and fulfillment."
Melissa Jones

A new tradition that has been started at B.S.U. is "Mission". In mission, students perform drama skits, give testimonies, and sing specials. Practicing after each meeting, they prepare themselves for performances at churches for where they have been invited to perform.

B.S.U. extends an invitation to anyone who would like to come and join with us in the B.S.U.

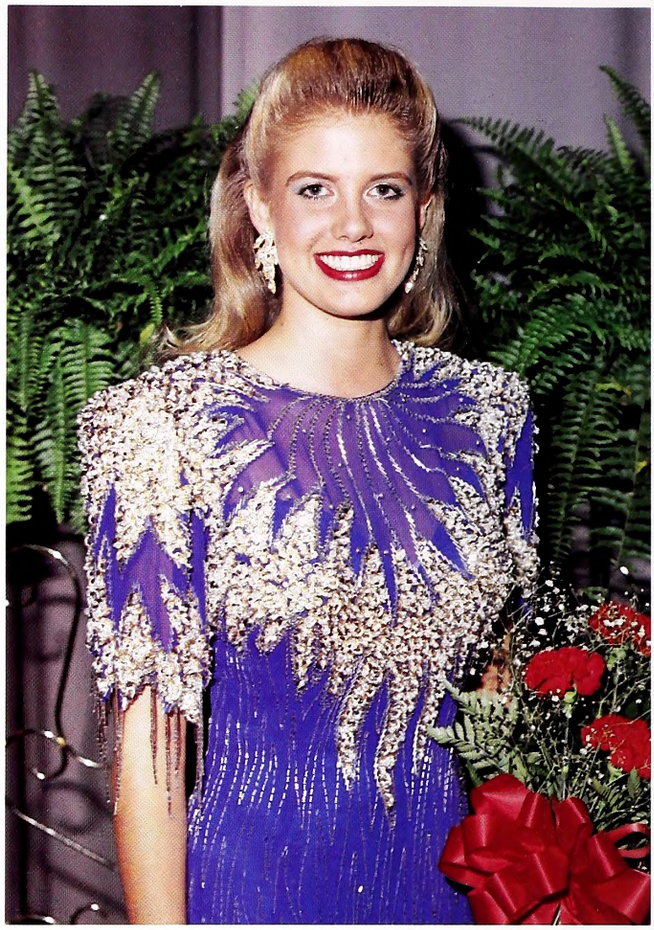
Kristy Earles wins most beautiful

On October 13, Kristy Earles of Magee was named "Most Beautiful" in the Trillium Beauty Pageant, a tradition since the 1950's.

Earles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Earles of Magee. She is a freshman physical therapy major. Her future plans include pursuing her master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Earles is a member of Alpha Omega, Baptist Student Union, and a Wolfpack Cheerleader.

Her hobbies include singing, playing the piano, and cheerleading.



Kristy Earles

The Beauties chosen in theTrillium Pageant were: Alise Blackwell, Magee; Brenda Dear, Mendenhall; Kristy Earles, Magee, Most Beautiful; Dawn Presson, West Lincoln; and Whitney Brewer, Brookhaven.

The audience is introduced to ancient Aztec ritual dances.

The dancers depict a sacrifice to the sun god.

The colorful costumes of the folk dancers enchant the viewers.

Hispanic dancers share their traditions with us!

This Aztec dancer shows great strength and courage in his dance with fire.

Copiah-Lincoln Community College was delighted to host the Ballet Folklorico, a troupe of Hispanic dancers. They brought to us an array of dances in both ancient Aztec and present traditional styles. Their vibrant sounds and colorful costumes emphasized the richness of their culture.

Area high school Spanish classes were invited to attend. Co-Lin's own Spanish class was also in attendance. This experience reinforced the interest of some students and sparked the interest of others. It is the goal of these dancers to educate others about their ethnic background and traditions.

Excellent!
Paige Grant

Dr. Billy Thames, a tradition for 25 years

Dr. Billy Thames celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary as president of the Copiah-Lincoln Community College District in January, 1993. The College's Board of Trustees honored Dr. Thames at its monthly meeting on February 4 and Dr. Thames and a dozen other Co-Lin personnel who has been employed at the college for 25 years were saluted on February 11 for their years of service to the college.

Dr. Thames is widely respected in local, state, and national circles for his leadership and dedication.

He is currently serving a second term as chairman of the Mississippi Humanities Council.

Additionally, Dr. Thames is serving as chairman of the Copiah Competitive Leadership Project, president of the Wesson Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Association of School Administrators, and he is a member of the Private Industry Council, Executive Management Institute, and the Governor's Task Force of Accreditation.

Dr. Thames was named as recipient of the Margaret Mosal Phi Theta Kappa Award this year as outstanding alumnus of the Eta Omega Chapter.

He and his wife, the former Anne Allen, are parents of three children: Mrs. Rachel Peeples, an instructor at Mississippi College; Rebecca Thames, an attorney with Kitchens Law Firm in Jackson; and William Thames, an engineer with a Jackson architectural firm.

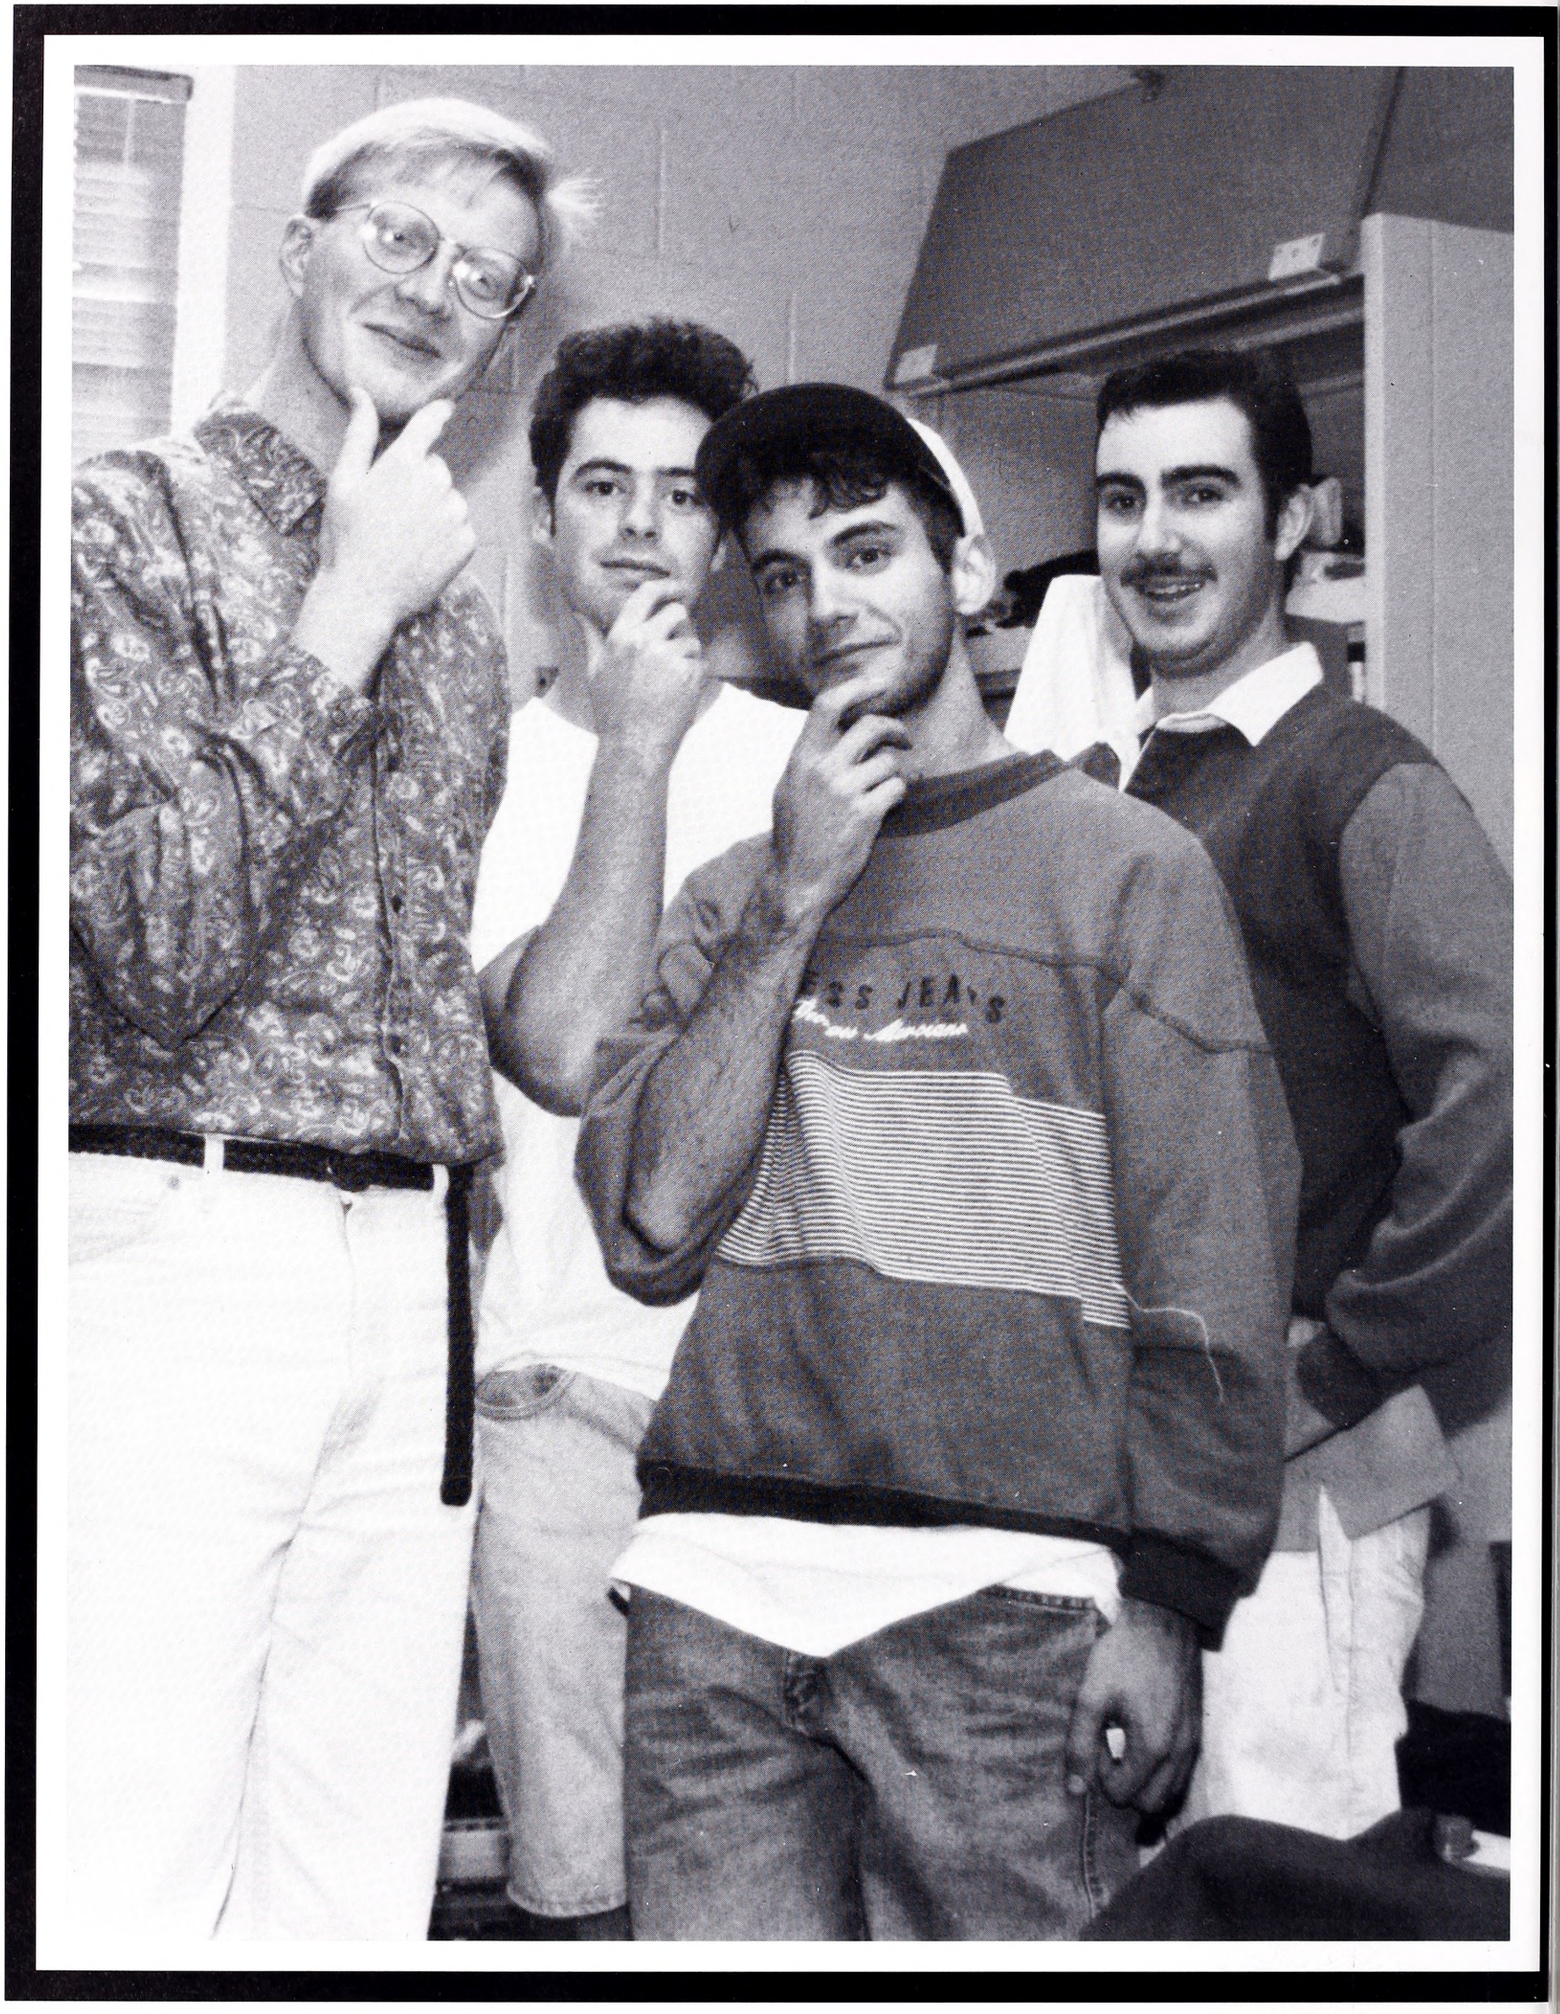
Dr. Thames does the tradition of passing on the crown to this year's most beautiful, Kristy Earles.

Dr. Thames is a member of the Wesson Baptist Church and the Brookhaven Woodworking Club.

Clowning around in a sombrero, Dr. Thames makes sure there is never a dull moment.



Tradition of Friendship

With such a small campus, you wouldn't think that there would be much of a student life at Co-Lin. But, there is one special thing that a small campus offers: you can always find a friend. Whether you go to the library, learning center, or just to the Coke machine, you always see someone that you know.

Here at Co-Lin, you can always find something to do with a friend. There's the REC hall, where most students go to hangout; the Grill, where students go to enjoy a hot meal and good music; and "bench-sitting" is very popular with the students.

Many times students get tired of the same routine every day. So, they grab a swimsuit and those sunglasses and head to the lake. Lake Lincoln is only 4 miles from campus and is a great way for students to just get away. While the girls sunbathe and swim, the guys enjoy skiing, fishing, and playing volleyball.

Leaving Co-Lin is hard for most students because the bond that they share with each other is so rare. It's like a home away from home; always surrounded by people who care about you and who want the best for you. That is what student life at Co-Lin is all about.

"Anywhere you look - you can always find a friend." Melanie Callender

Mr. and Miss Copiah-Lincoln
Chad Wigington and Amy Foster

Miss Co-Lin, Amy Foster, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Foster from Brookhaven. Amy has been a Wolfpack cheerleader for two years; head cheerleader her sophomore year. She was chosen to be 1992-93 Homecoming Queen and 1991-92 freshmen maid. She has also been a member in such organizations as Alpha Omega, Baptist Student Union, and Who's Who Among Students in American Junior College.

Mr. Co-Lin, Chad Wigington, is the son of Gerald and Betty Wigington from New Hebron. Chad has been a member and has held certain offices in organizations such as the Blue Wave Marching Band, president; the Concert Band; the Jazz Band; Sojourners; Alpha Omega; BSU, program co-director and center chairperson; "Mission"; Wesley Foundation; and the President's Council, president. He has also been chosen to be in Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

Campus Favorites

Homecoming

Homecoming is a time for the gathering of long-time friends and classmates and celebrating together with fond memories of days gone by. The 1992 homecoming season at Co-Lin was no different.

Over 400 alumni from across the United States gathered at Co-Lin on October 24 for our homecoming festivities. There were 16 states represented.

Plaques were presented to the alumnus of the year, Dr. Robert A. "Bobby" Freeman of Skokie, Ill. and Miss Jean Street of Clinton, MS. Outstanding instructors were Dr. Donny A. Lawson and Mrs. Verna McFadden, both of Brookhaven.

Each year clubs participate in display during homecoming. This year the Modern Foreign Language Club won first place; Phi Beta Lambda, second; VICA, Third; and WCLL, fourth.

Many activities were held prior to the homecoming festivities including the annual homecoming golf tournaments, student body dances, and pep rally.

Burlian Walker, Executive Director of the Foundation/Amumni Affairs and Public Relations, stated "the changing of times for different events gave reunion groups a longer time to meet and it did not affect the size of the crowds at different events."

The 1992 Homecoming queen, Amy Foster of Brookhaven was crowned during pregame homecoming ceremonies by last year's queen, Karla Adams, also of Brookhaven.

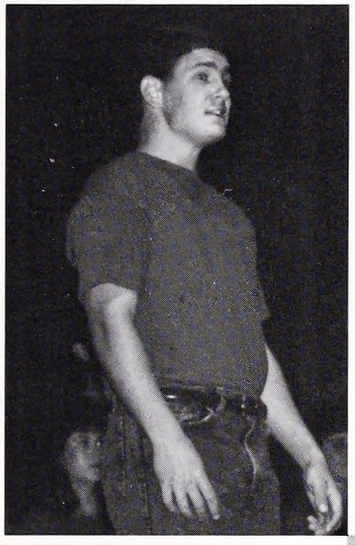
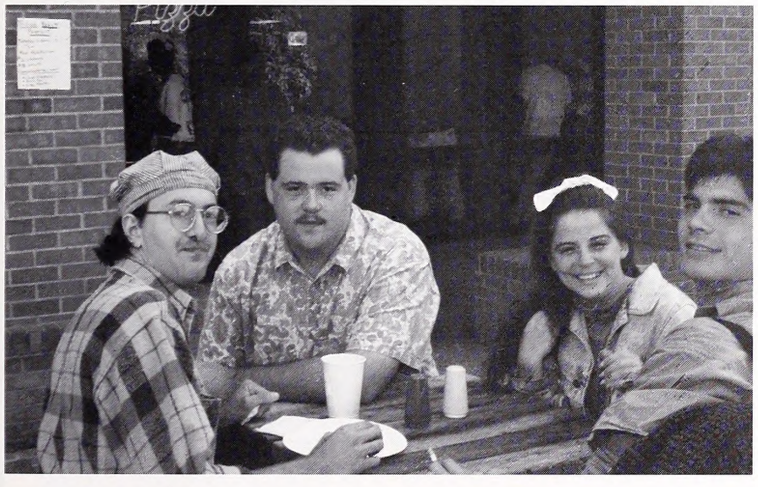
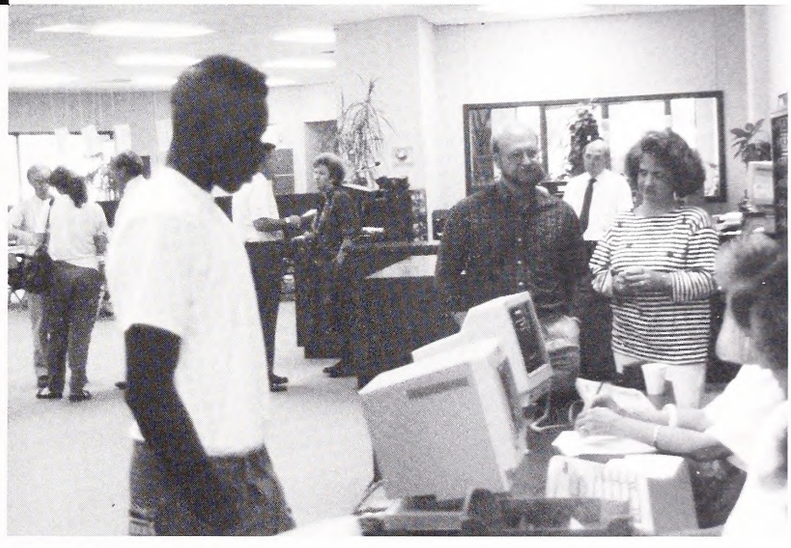
COPIAH-LINC







The tradition lives on!

Whether it is in the classroom, the learning center, or the library, Copiah-Lincoln Community College strives to provide every student with the academic, social, and spiritual growth needed to make wise vocational choices and to adapt to the constant changing and the highly complex society. One of Copiah's Lincoln Community College's main goals is to provide the highest quality education at a minimal cost to individuals in the seven county district served by Co-Lin.

Copiah-Lincoln Community College provides an instructional program for the first two years for students desiring to transfer to a senior college, along with other services to aid students in the pursuit of personal educational, and occupational goals.

The library and the learning center provide the faculty and students with a wide variety students with a variety of learning resource materials and facilities.

The library consists of more than 39,000 books and periodicals with 190 recent periodical subscriptions, and 11 local, state, and national newspapers. The library also provides a copy machine and a patron room with a seating capacity for 200 patrons. The learning center contains computers and audio-visual/media services for the college. Tutoring is also offered to students through the learning center.

A wide selection of curricular organizations is offered to promote cultural, academic, and professional growth and interest to all students.

Through its instructional staff, facilities, and activities, Copiah-Lincoln Community College provides a beneficial environment for its students.

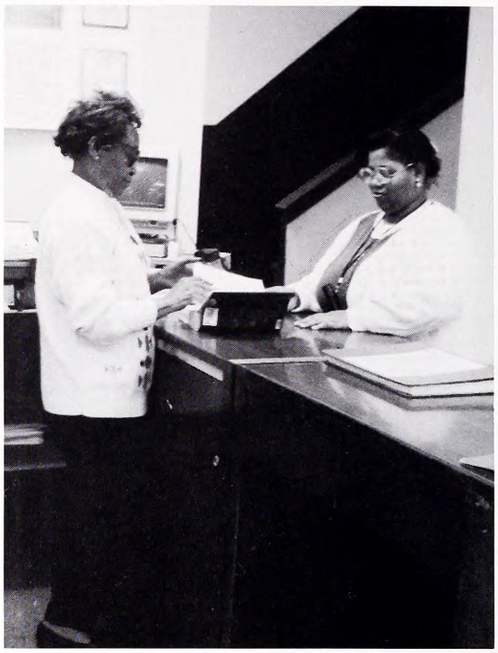
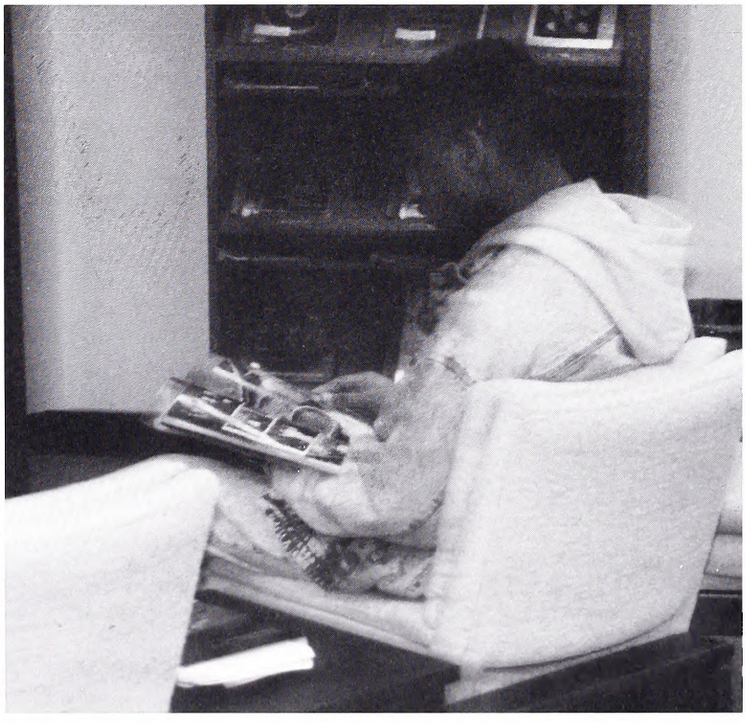
Academics & Organizations

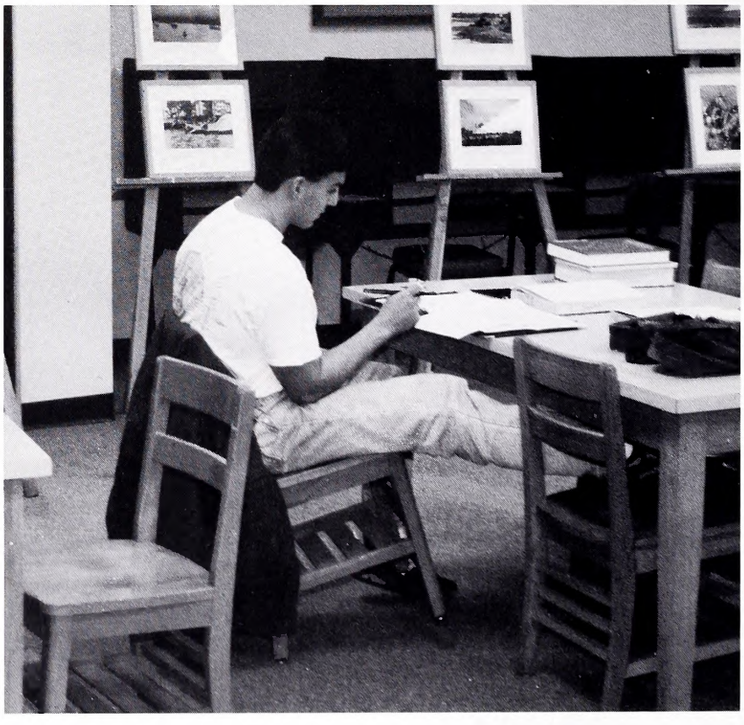


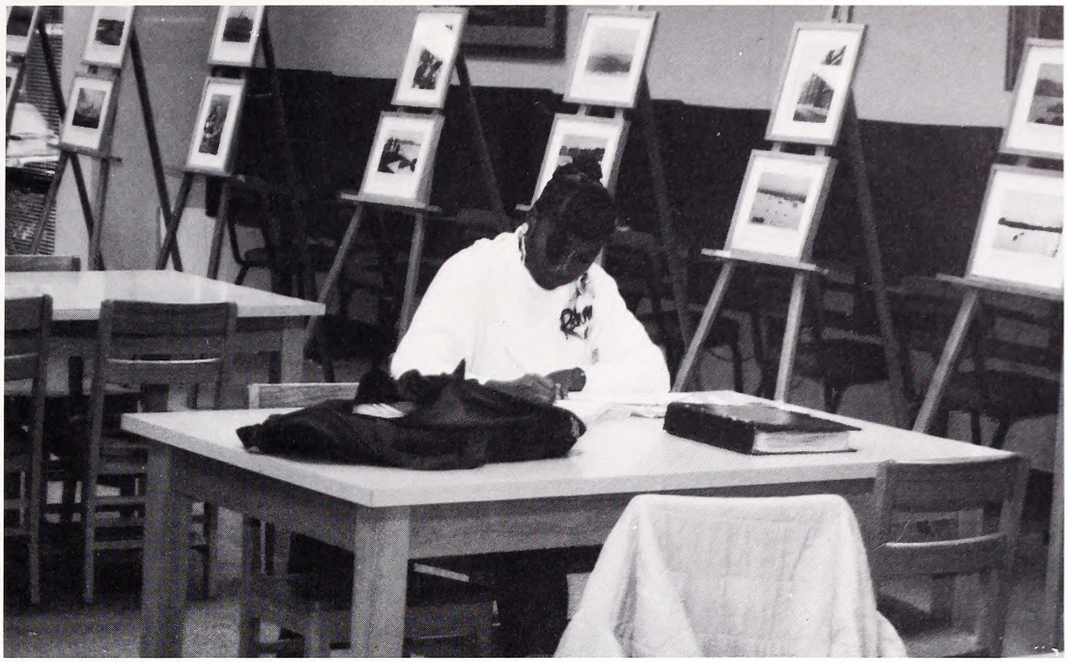
Oswalt Library: 'Lifesaver'

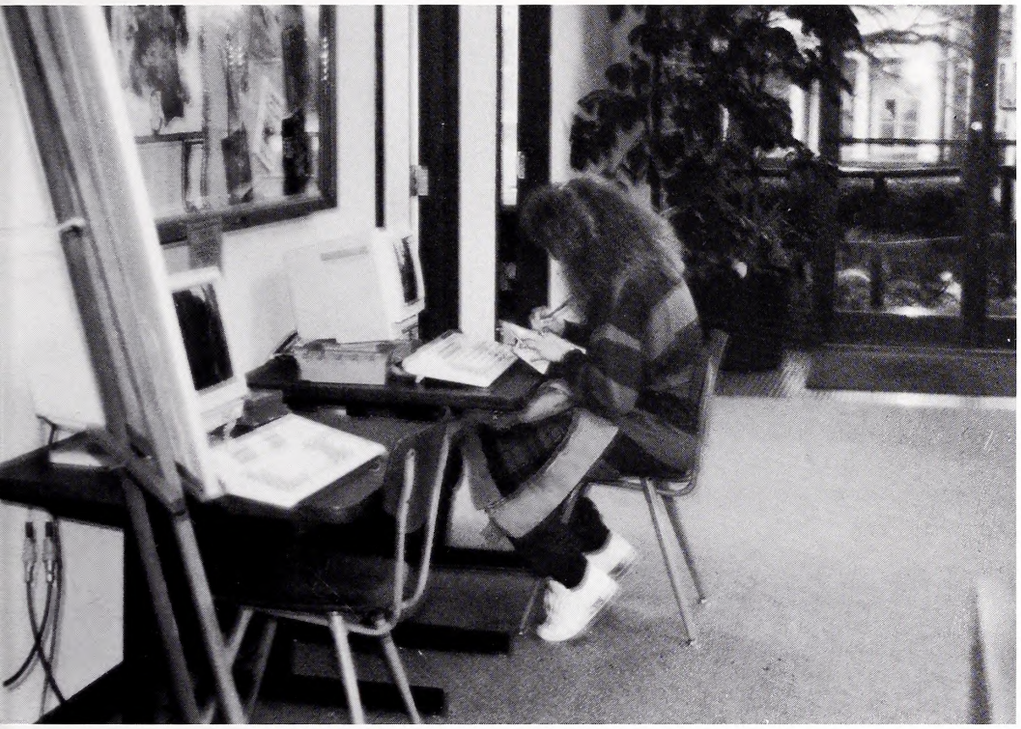
The Oswalt Library has served as a "lifesaver" for many students at Co-Lin. It provides printed and computerized resources for students who have waited until the last minute and even those who plan in advance. Either way, the information is always there.

Mrs. Evelyn W. Oswalt was a librarian at Co-Lin from 1925 until her retirement in 1962. It would only seem natural that the library would be named in her memory. The Memorial Building in which the library is located is dedicated to those who lost their lives in World War II. So, as you can see, the library has a history all its own.

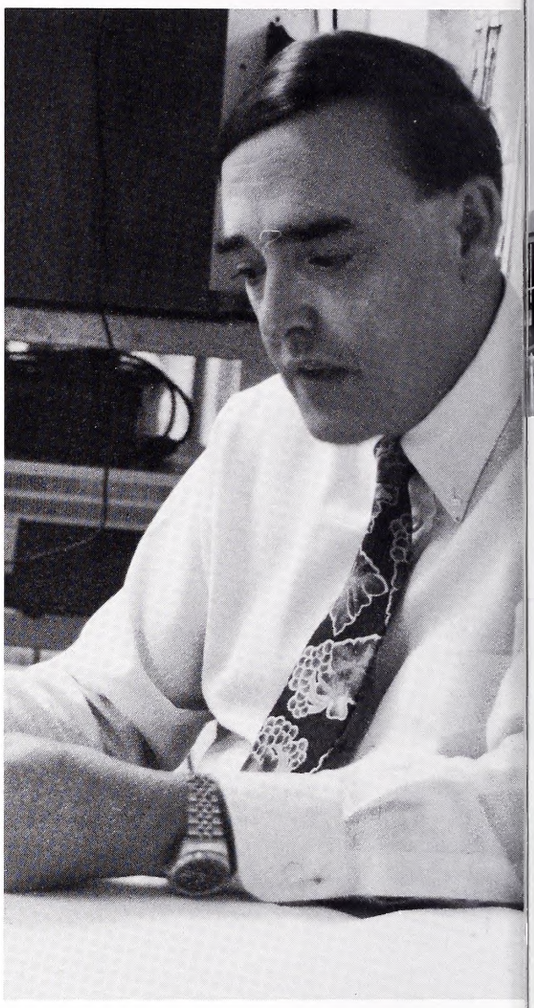








Scholars Bowl team wins state championship



Five students prepare to compete

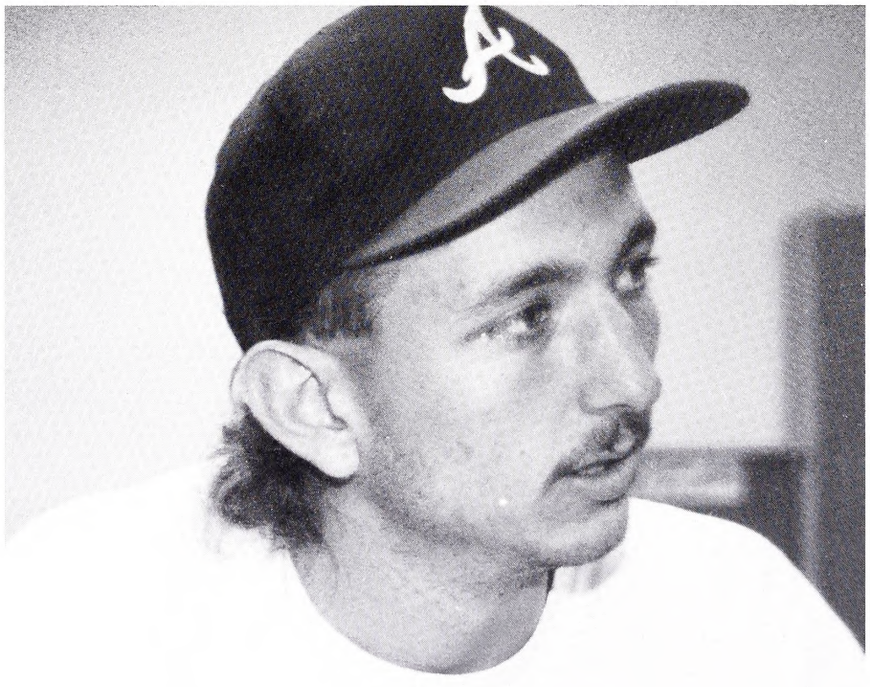
Keeping with its tradition of developing high academic quality in students, each year Co-Lin selects a four-member team plus one alternate to participate in community college academic competition.

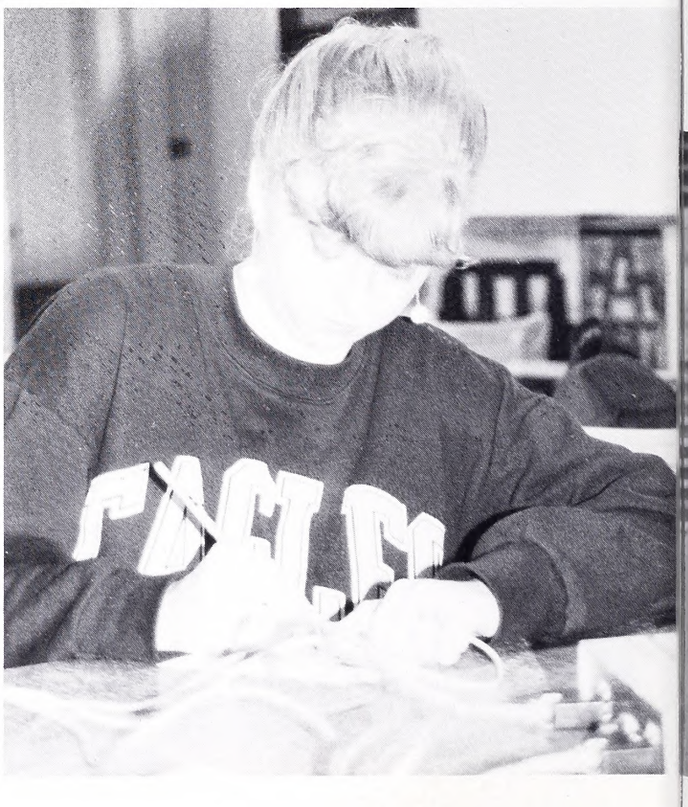
The Scholars Bowl team selected for this year was Brady Harwood, Brookhaven; Lance Moak, Wesson; Trina Howell, Brookhaven; Steve Greer, Bogue Chitto; and alternate Mark Lindsey, Wesson. Durr Walker is the team sponsor.

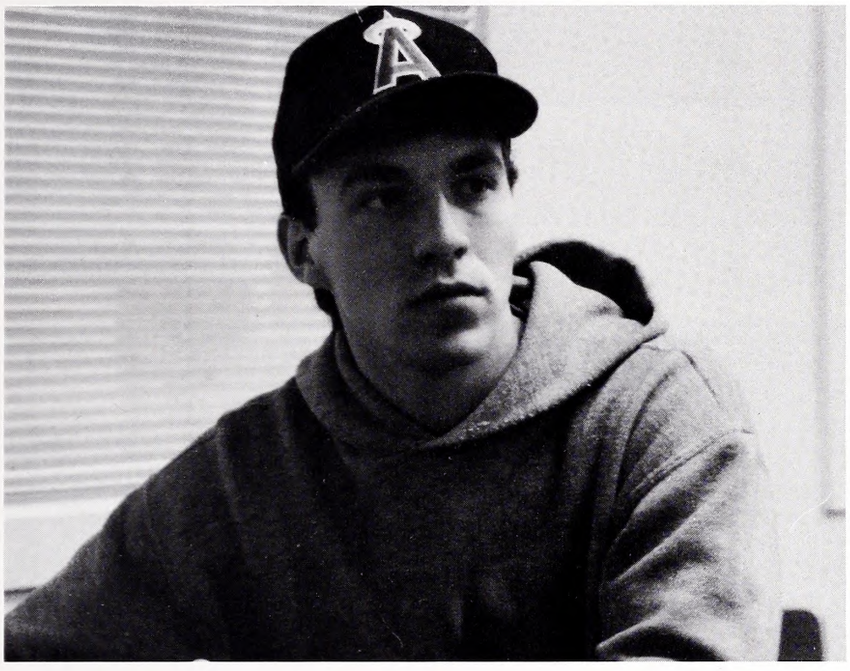
They participated in the 9th annual academic competition for community colleges in February at the University of Mississippi. Preliminary, semi-final, and final rounds were scheduled on the basis of the number of teams competing.

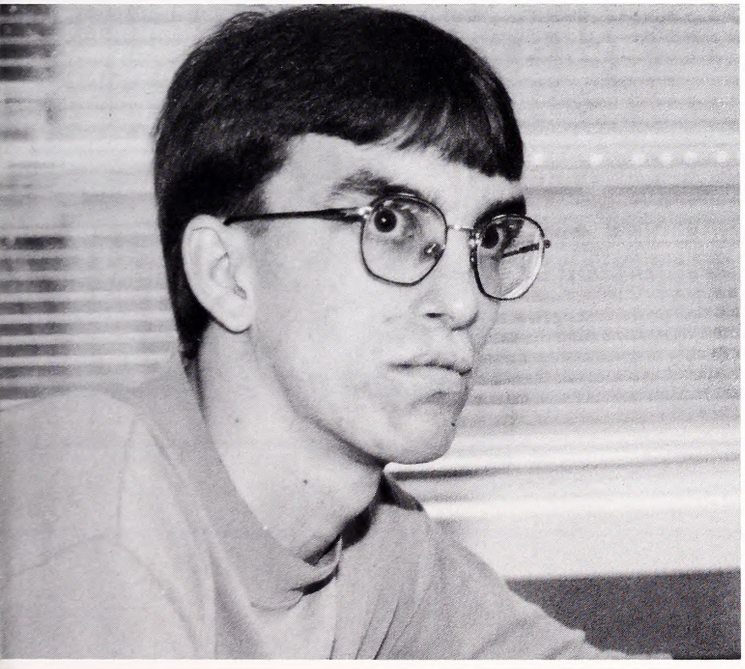
Teams were questioned in the areas of science and technology, math, humanities, fine arts, and social and behavioral sciences.

First, second, and third place teams as well as three individual winners whose teams do not finish in the money qualify for scholarship dollars. Also, the three participants who answer the most toss-up questions and who are not members of the top three teams qualify for scholarships. The scholarships are for use only in the junior and senior years of study at the University of Mississippi.







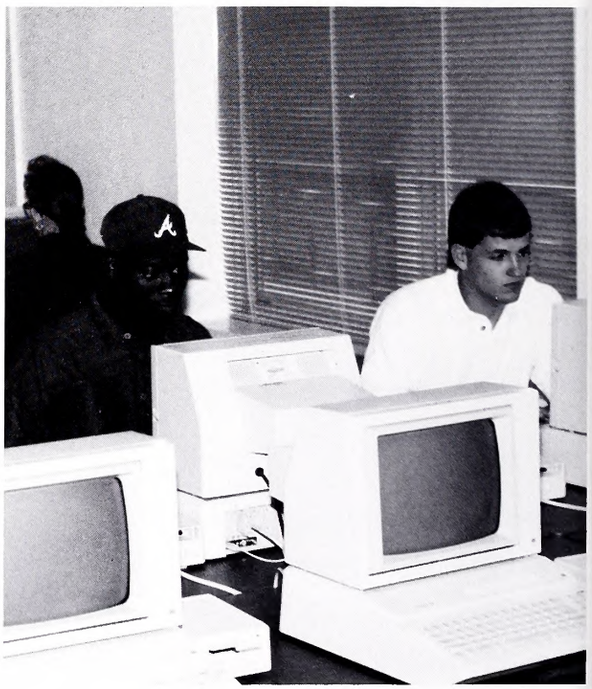


Today's tradition for learning

"It really helps a lot with tests."
Heather Godbold

The learning center is a five year old tradition at Co-Lin. Students use the resources in the learning center as an accompaniment to their classroom instruction. It can also be used for students to review for tests. Learning materials are provided across 60 subjects. Not only can students work with academic subjects, but also vocational and technical subjects. The learning center is a complete audio/visual center. Besides computers, the learning center also contains slides, typewriters, microscopes, audio cassettes, and a skeleton model. Phi Theta Kappa members offer free tutoring at the learning center. Tutoring sessions may be group or individual. The staff is willing to assist any student who requests extra help with skills on projects. The learning center is open to all students five days a week.

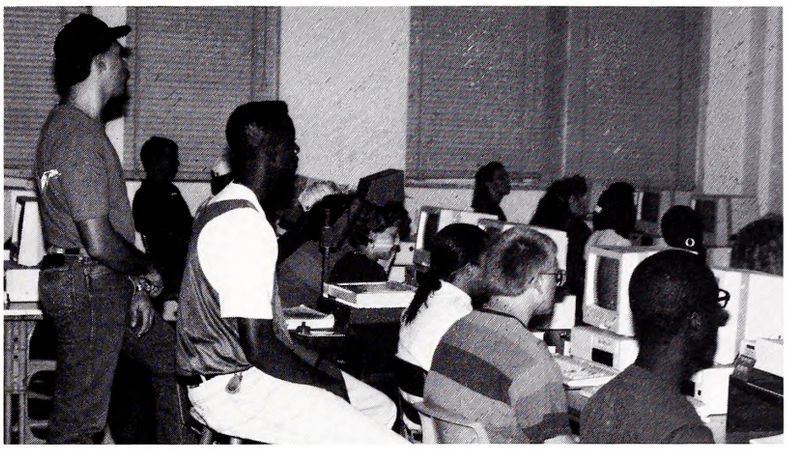
Russ Fowler assists another student with one of the many computers found in the learning center.

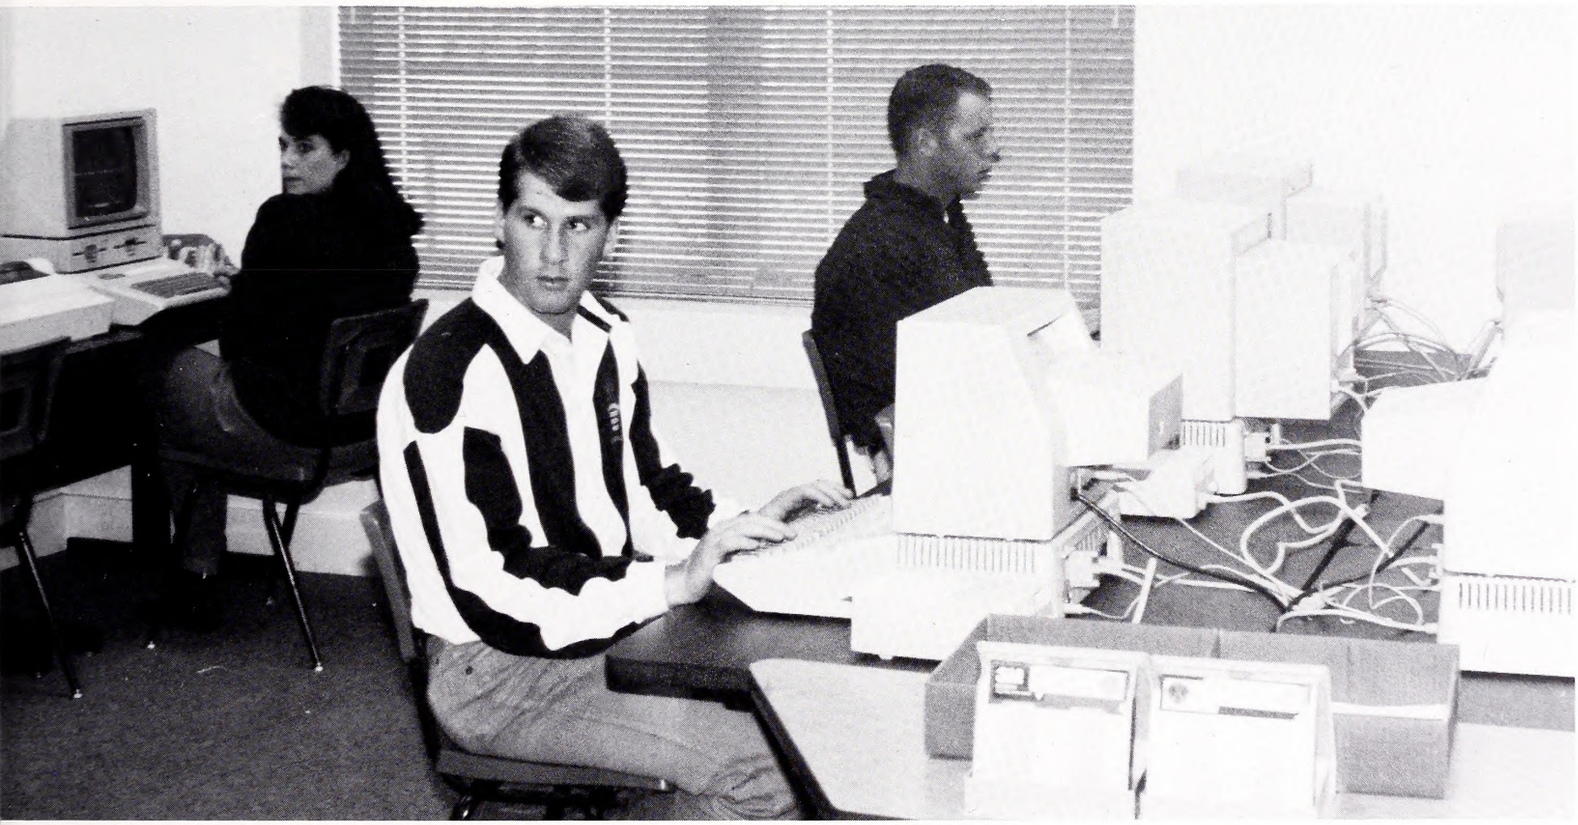


Students use the learning center to enhance their knowledge or work on an assignment for a particular class.

Joey Beeson always finds time to review a computer disk for an upcoming "little quiz" in college algebra.

Among all the audio/visual material in the learning center, the computers are the most popular in demand.





Many students try to improve their computer skills to make studying one step easier.

Radiography, Child Care continue growth

In 1988 the radiography program was named Outstanding Program of the Year in Mississippi. And, since 1988 the program has a tradition of 100% placement each year.

"I love the profession itself," says Verna McFadden, radiography instructor. "I always enjoyed working in hospitals with patients."

"My main goal now," McFadden continues, "is to turn out high-quality radiographic technologists. By doing this we will provide for the public the best possible patient care."

"I love the profession itself .... "
Verna McFadden

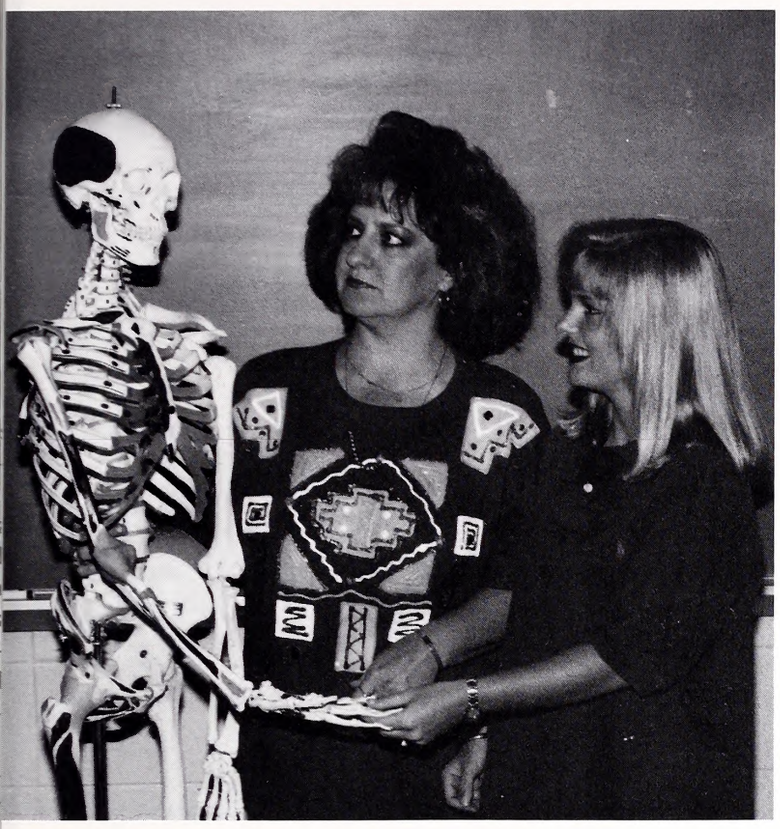
Fourteen years ago when the child care program began, there were six to eight students in the program working with only toddlers.

Now student enrollment has increased to between thirty and forty students and the program has expanded to include infants and pre-schoolers as well as toddlers.Enrollment also in-creased when the infant and toddler center was added.

Ms. Barbara Garrett, the program coordinator, says that they always have a waiting list of ten to fifteen children to be placed in the center.

Student Nicole Byrd lends a helping hand with the children.

Children get true devotion from child care instructor Rhonda Bland.



Instructor Verna McFadden and student Anna Schillings learn a great deal from their friend the skeleton.

Kay Woodrick, professional food service instructor, demonstrates how to arrange an attractive display for a special event on campus.

Two food services students inquire about certain products in Mrs. Woodrick's office.

Machine Shop, Cosmetology challenge students

Vocational and technical instruction at Co-Lin spans a variety of fields. With constantly changing technology, the departments still keep abreast of the times.

The machine shop has expanded its department to include a new computerized, numerically controlled lathe, a vertical milling machine with a digital readout system, an electrical discharge machine, and numerous other machines.

Co-Lin provides students with tools and a tool box while they are here.

While hairstyles and trends change, the cosmetology department finds it challenging to adapt.

"There can always be improvement on natural beauty." Selena Kelly.

The cosmetology program was started in 1970. This three-semester course has a relaxed atmosphere. "We like for students to enjoy as well as learn," says Faye Hill who was here when the program was started 22 years ago. Classes meet for 7 ½ hours a day, 5 days a week. The training includes both classroom and laboratory instruction. After completion of the program, the students receive a certificate which allows them to take the state cosmetology board examination. Many of Co-Lin's graduates in cosmetology have gone into careers as make-up artists, color-technicians, supply sales-persons, and working in beauty salons.

Bobby Martin, Susan Mason, and Rachel Tanksley watch as instructor Robin Register shows how to do a state board set.

Lance Thompson watches as Kevin Hux operates a lathe.

Greg Russell shows Stephen Ashley and Eric Wicker how to use an instrument.

Clubs, organizations continue traditions with activities

Toby Miller is among the 40-plus students from various majors who are disc jockeys at campus radio station WCLL-FM. The station opened in March, 1970, as Mississippi's first non-commercial, educational FM station, WWCL-FM, and reopened in 1983 as WCLL-FM. Several former staff members have gone on to successful careers in the broadcast field.

Dean Ray Ishee said, "I encourage all our students to vote in all the elections. This is a basic democratic process."

Studying hard whets appetite

After hours of classes daily, students are faced with even longer hours of studying. The library provides enhancement materials including reference works and periodicals and additional books for research on almost any imaginable topic. The Learning Center also provides a rich area of assorted works, including videos, disks, cassette tapes, tutors, study guides, etc. Students study independently for all classes. Studying hard, though, as all Co-Lin students do, can work up a hearty appetite.

On campus, students have a choice of dining areas, the cafeteria or the grill. The grill offers a regular line and a Pizza Hut line for the first time ever during lunch and on Thursday nights. Mississippi Inovative Services, with Mrs. Karen Kornegay as the manager, began providing food service on campus on July 1.

Student Malinda Sistrunk of Mendenhall, sampling the food, comments "It's nice to have a variety of things to choose from."

Refugees find shelter on campus.

In September, Co-Lin's gym was opened to those seeking shelter from the tropical storm "Hurricane Andrew."

Of the estimated seventy "overnight guests," the majority of them came from New Orleans and other areas of Louisiana. Included in the group total, there were over 20 children.

"We played games with the kids, checked on them the next day, and even took some of them on a tour of the dorms," commented Paula Cook, a sophomore from Magee.

Along with Cook, there were several other campus students who assisted in getting the visitors settled in.

Neighboring "Wesson Shop-n-Wash" donated drinks and pillows, and Wesson Baptist Church loaned blankets and pillows.

"Also, a family from New Orleans brought food and other necessities and shared them with everyone," concluded Cook.

Students get involved

Clubs have become a traditional part of student life at Co-Lin.

Becoming a member of a club provides many opportunities for students to travel, serve other campus students, and meet new people.

"Being involved with other students and taking part in organizational projects teaches you to compromise with others and share ideas in order to reach the same goal, and provides a sense of accomplishment," said Heather Nevill of Natchez.

Nevill serves as vice president of the President's Council, editor of Trillium, a member of the Baptist Student Union, BSU Mission team and a Trailblazer.

"Sometimes it is tough being involved with so many different clubs and keeping up with academic classwork at the same time, but if you manage your time wisely it can be done."

The many clubs and organizations are open to all students who show interest in getting involved on campus.

Students in the Wesley Foundation and the Baptist Student Union try to recruit new members at the annual club fair.

Sojourners help keep Co-Lin Tradition Alive!

The Sojourners originated as a folk-singing group in 1970, pictured here, under the direction of Miss Julia Guess. The group performed off and on campus to such tunes made popular by Peter, Paul, and Mary, and other groovy performers. John E. Russell became Sojourner director in 1971 and as time went on the group changed its size and music. Yet, the group continued to entertain, often being called upon for state conventions, the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans, and other events, thus helping to keep the tradition alive.

Tradition of Athletes

Whether it's kicking a field goal, hitting a homerun, slam dunkin' a ball or winning a serve, Co-Lin students have a tradition of good sportsmanship and dedication to the game.

Exciting - From touchdown to tackles, devoted fans cheer our football team.

Energizing - The bat cracks and the ball sails over the fence. It's another home run for the home team.

Electrifying - There's a continuous momentum of fast paced action as our basketball teams slam dunk their way to victory.

Exhilerating - While outfits glisten against a court of green, our tennis team swings into action - serve, swing, set, game.

Yes, sports fans, it's been another fantastic year for the Co-Lin athletes.

"Athletic teams help keep the tradition alive."
Coach Gwyn Young

Sports - An Important Tradition

Sports have always been an important tradition here at Co-Lin. Win or lose the athletes give their best 100%. The fans turn out to support the home team because (no matter what the score) the games are always interesting.

"Watching from the sidelines, the games were still exciting, even though we didn't win much," says Victor Sutton, manager. "But," he adds, "I believe that next year the team will improve and the mighty Wolves will be stronger than ever."

Coach Randall Bradberry comments, "With a 2-8 record, all of us were disappointed to a certain degree, but at the same time we had a very young team."

"Even though the group was small in number, I was very proud of our sophomores in the leadership they provided," he continues.

Coach Bradberry also adds, "We're looking forward to next year because we feel we have a good nucleus coming back. We're anxious to begin spring practice and building toward next year."

Basketball team improves

This year in basketball the Wolves began the season with four freshmen starters and one sophomore.

As always, starting off with a new group allows room for improvement.

"There is no question that the team has improved since the beginning of the season," commented Coach Paul Johnson.

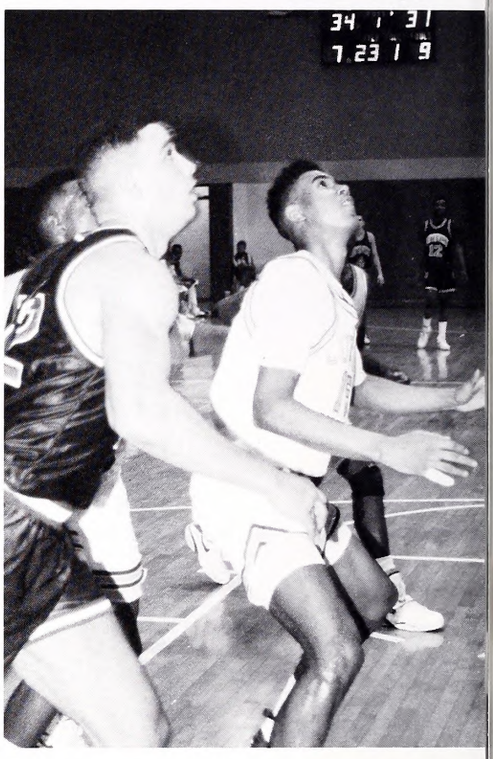
Eric Jackson, starting as a "power forward", led the team in scoring with an average of 14 points and 7.2 rebounds per game.

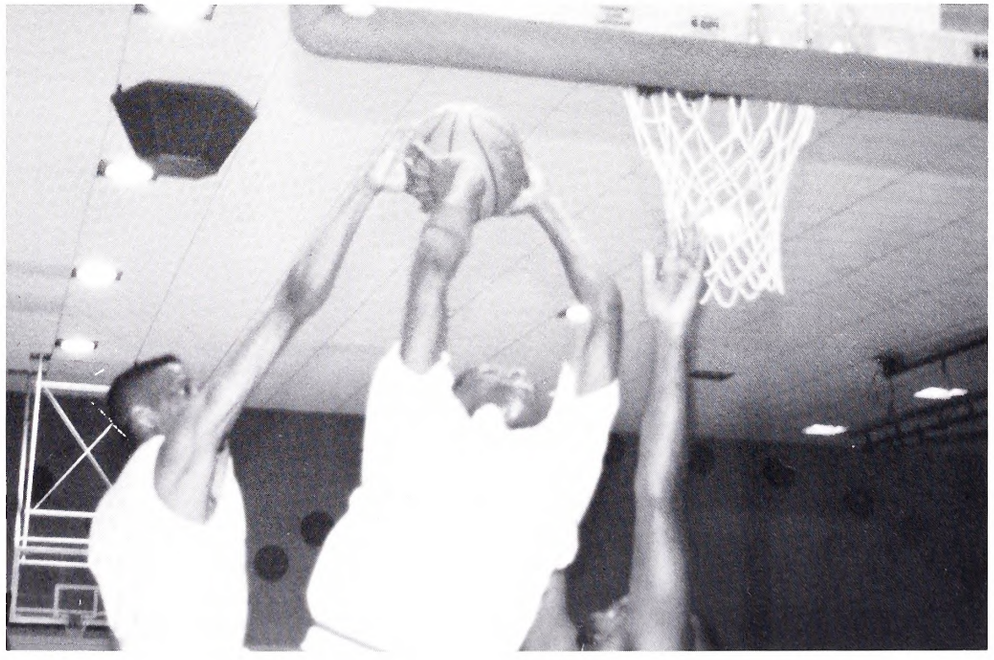
Other starters were Reggie Ware, forward, who averaged 13 points and 4.3 rebounds per game. DeCarlos Anderson, with 12 points and 5 rebounds per game; Reggie Henderson, point guard, led the team in assists; and guard Dewayne Brinkley averaged 6 points per game.

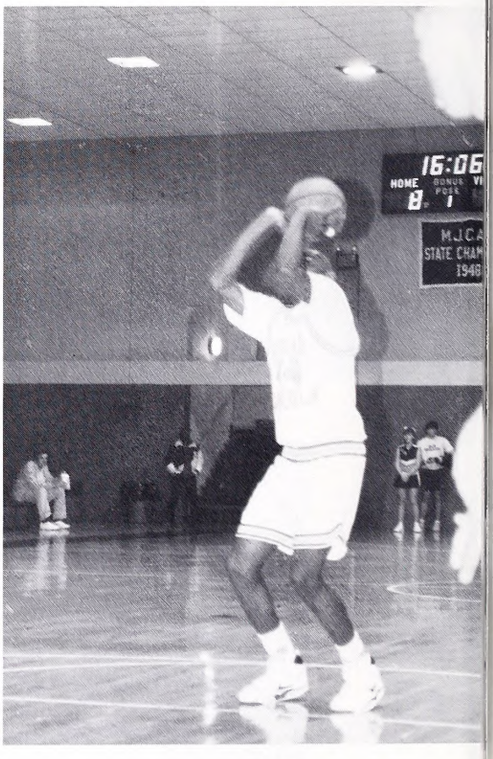
Michael Norwood, a forward for the team, said Coach Johnson has done a great job coaching the team this year.

"I think as far as playing, he has done his job well and the rest was up to us to motivate ourselves to get out on the court and play," he said.

The majority of the team will be back next year. "We will pick up a few more players, and by then we'll be really good!" concluded Coach Johnson.







The Wolves ended the 1992-93 regular season in the south division tournament by falling to top-seeded Gulf Coast, 79-73. This gave the Wolves an overall 16-11 record.

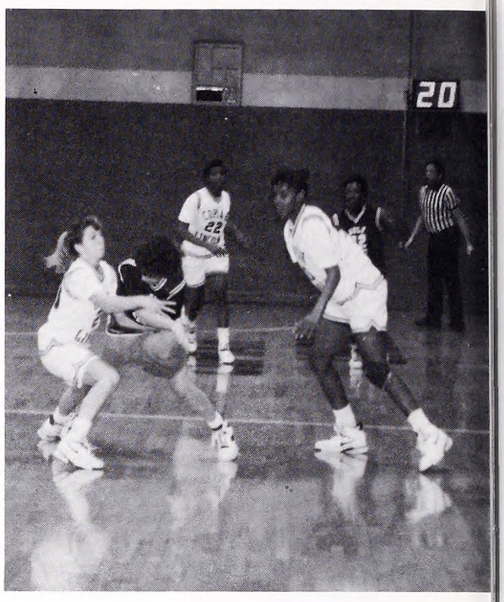
Women win Region 23 crown; finish at 32-2 in NJCAA tourney



Lady Wolves nationally ranked

This season the Lady Wolves have practiced long and played hard, earning their spot as number 5 in the NJCAA poll.

The results from their hard work are seen in every game and reflect in their perfect 22-0 record as of February 2, 1993.

Leading this year's team are Megan Riebock as point guard, who is 5'8 and averages 11½ points per game with 6 assists. She was chosen first team-All State last year.

Barbara Payton, second guard, is 5'9½ and was also chosen first team-All State last year. Payton averages 14 points per game.

Starting at post positions are Terri Sneed, (6'2) averaging 10 points and 6 rebounds per game, and Heather Ratcliff (6') averaging 15 points and 5½ rebounds per game.

Coach Gwyn Young said that the team has definitely improved since the beginning of the year.

"It's been a good group to work with," added Coach Young.

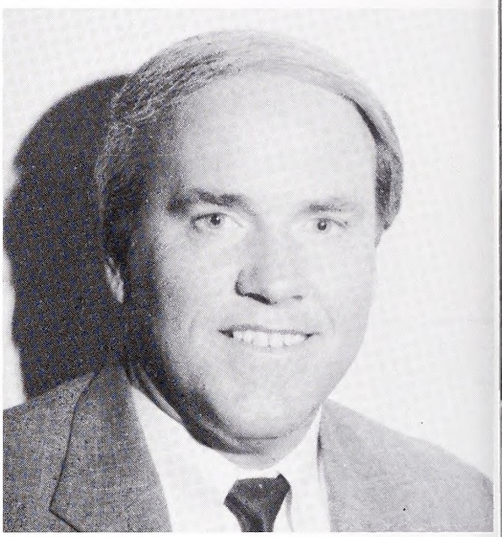
Coach Mike McIntyre



Coach optimistic about Wolfpack tennis team

The Copiah-Lincoln Wolves tennis teams of the past have been outstanding, according to Coach Mike McIntyre, and his feelings for this year's team are optimistic.

Cumulative records over 14 seasons include five state and four regional team championships, six nationally ranked teams, seven Co-Lin individual tournament titles, nine teams qualifying to play in nationals, and six teams participating in the national tournament.

Players have won 56 individual state and regional titles. In 1991, the Wolves were state and regional runner-ups and placed #21 at nationals.

In 1990 the team finished 24-0 and placed ninth in the nationals.

Returning from last season are Dave Robison, Chris Layton, Robbie Penn, and Greg Panzica.

McIntyre is looking to newcomers Andrew Haile, Jason Howard, and Clark Walker to add to the Co-Lin tradition.

Coach Keith Case

A new beginning for baseball

A new year, a new beginning, and a new coach for baseball arrived in 1992-93.

Coach Keith Case's Wolves saw eight sophomores returning, joined by one sophomore and a dozen freshmen.

Sophomore pitcher Joey Durr signed early this year with Mississippi College. Last year his record was 2-5 and he earned a run average of 7.52.

Other returning sophomores are pitchers Michael Durr, Mo Davis, and Kennon Lavergne; thirdbaseman Brice McClendon; secondbaseman Scott Griffin; catcher Ron Rushing; and firstbaseman Johnny Van Hoose. Two-year starter as offensive guard on the football team, Hollis Ratcliff joined the team.

Talented freshmen signed by Case were pitchers Chris Weekley, Shannon Ballard, Matt Mason, Larry Kirton, and Cory Darby; outfielders Scott Walker, Shane Coley, and Scott Langley; thirdbaseman Jason Rankin; secondbaseman Chad Caillet; catcher Rodney Furhmann; and firstbaseman Chris Cummins.

Friendly, fun-loving, caring, endearing, and always willing to assist — these were just a few of the ways students respond when asked how they felt about the people here at Co-Lin.

Many students have instant friendships here because their classmates are the same people who live in the community they grew up with. The rest are not strangers for very long.

There is also a variety of people at Co-Lin with different interests and backgrounds that creates much diversity in friendships. Friends can learn and grow from each other.

The faculty and staff are helpful. They show a genuine concern for the students and often go well out of their way to assist anyone with a problem.

A spirit of comradery prevails across this campus as everyone pulls together to make the most of every moment and savor the fun.

Years from now when places and objects become distant memories, it will be the people we knew that will remain in our hearts always.

"The diverse backgrounds of each person contribute to the strong bonds which are formed here." Sheryl Williams

Administration

Dr. Howell C. Garner has been at Copiah-Lincoln Community College for nineteen years, the last seven on the Wesson campus and the first twelve on the Natchez campus.

Dr. Howell Garner, dean of the college, says that there are changing trends among the students. About 25% of the students here are age 25 or older. Besides age, there is also a slight increase in the number of students in the technical educational program.

"An anticipated trend for the future is that there will be a great need for technical skills," states Dr. Garner.

Dr. Garner goes on to say, "I think the quality of Co-Lin is so strong that the people who go through Co-Lin as students like to maintain a connection with the college."

Perhaps it is the "family-type atmosphere that is here where there is a unity of purpose, caring attitude, and concern for students," as Dr. Garner calls it, that Dean Ray Ishee had in mind when he called Co-Lin "home."

"Co-Lin to me has become home," says Ishee. "I have an athletic background so I came here to coach." Ishee continues, "Copiah-Lincoln has become a source of pride for me because I feel I have helped develop the image from being mediocre in the football game."

Dr. Howell Garner leads faculty

Discovering a rewarding career may be difficult for some, but Dr. Howell C. Garner, college dean, realized how fulfilling a job could be when he became a college administrator.

Dr. Garner said, "I love administration because of its involvement with people." Not only is he dedicated to his role as administrator but also to the vital role of community colleges to the people in the district.

"We have a broad goal to provide a foundation for those who want an education."

Dr. Garner listed several ways in which the college helps others. The college serves others by providing an education for those right out of high school, for non-traditional students, and academic as well as vocational and technical students. "I think we do an excellent job providing an educational background," he said. Because Co-Lin is a comprehensive community college, it is Dr. Garner's responsibility to see that the college offers a diverse range of curriculum.

Decisions, Decisions ...

A pensive Clay Foster ponders the meaning of life. Is it wisdom, country music or Angela Smith? Just ask Clay.

For many students at Co-Lin, these two years are a growing period in which they will choose their majors and make a lot of important decisions that will affect their futures.

Back to the Books

After a long leisured summer, Kristy Earles and Jodi Sullivan are now finding that studying is an essential part of student life.

Thanks to the equipped science laboratories on campus, students are able to have "hands on" experience in diverse science courses, one of the many facets of Co-Lin's tradition of academic success.

Dormant Life in Dormitories

After a busy morning of rushing to classes, these guys lounge in total relaxation during the afternoon.

And what are their plans for the rest of the evening - "just hanging out with the guys" and catching up on some male bonding.

Casting the First Vote

Each year the student body of Copiah-Lincoln Community College participates in the annual vote. Shelley Millis, Ginnell Booth, Shay Manning, and Kristie Womack were some of the first students to cast their vote in the student elections held in Henley Square Courtyard.

A New Tradition

A recent addition to the Co-Lin campus (only five years old) is the learning center. Students use the learning center across 60 subjects, primarily academic, but also vocational and technical.

More than a computer lab, the learning center is a complete audio/visual center. Besides having audio and video cassettes, you can also find a microscope, model skeleton, and free tutoring by Phi Theta Kappa members.

The Blue Wave, that is! Kendall Johnson was caught in a less serious moment from a hard night's performance as a part of the Blue Wave Marching Band.

Through their hard work, dedication, and spectacular half-time performances, the Co-Lin band has entertained generations.

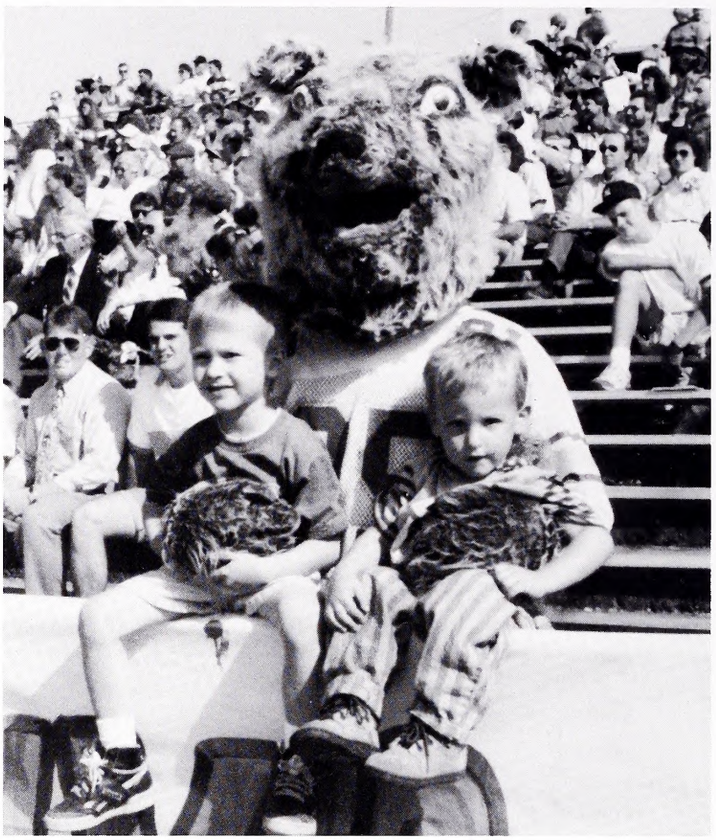
Traditions Throughout The Years

A wolf of the past is pictured arousing the fans at a basketball game in the early 1980's.



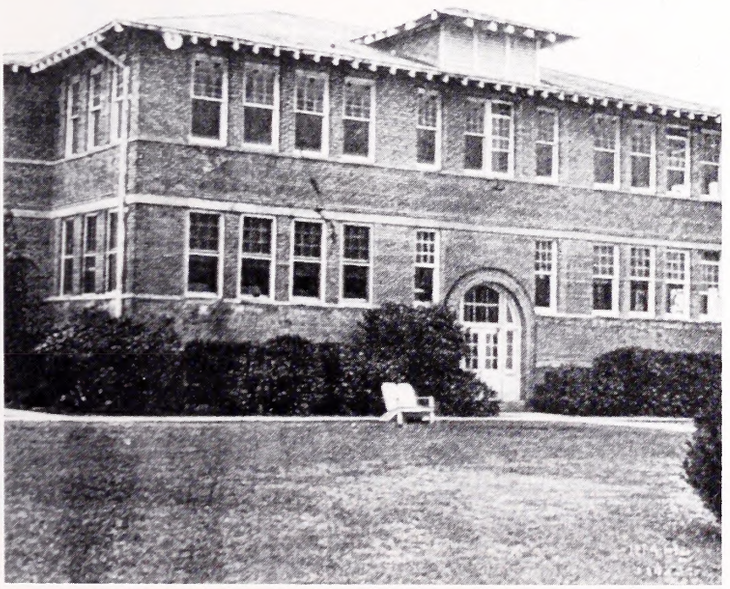
Much like the old wolf, our wolf today is also seen trying to keep that spirit alive.

Dr. Thames is shown here in his first year as President of the College, 1968.

Even after 25 years Dr. Thames' commitment to the college has not weakened.

Dr. Thames' first secretary, Mrs. Alma Smith, worked hard to make sure things ran smoothly in the president's office.

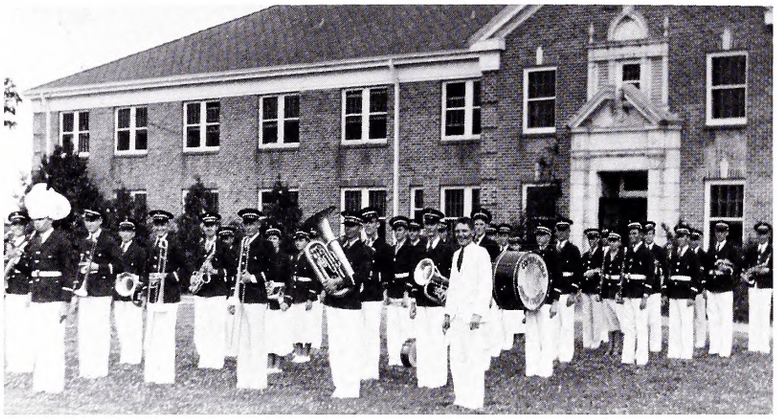
Marilyn Brown, the current secretary to the president, has carried on the tradition of keeping order in the office.



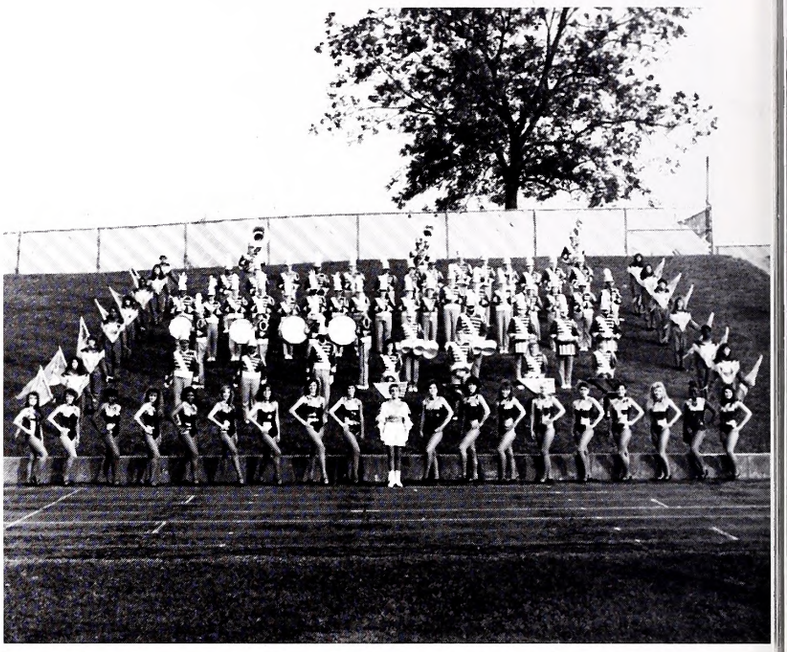
The administration building is shown as it looked in 1937.

Due to renovations the administration building looks very different today.

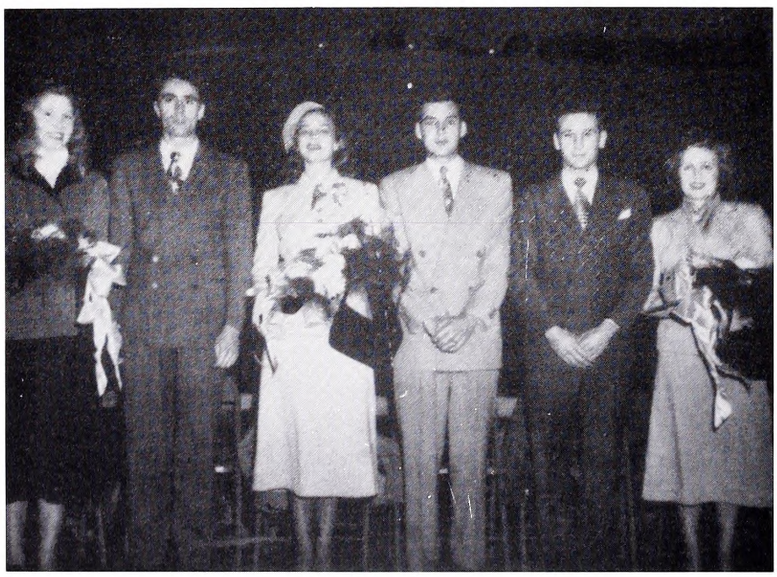
Traditions Are Not Forgotten



The marching band has long since been a tradition at Co-Lin.



Through the years the band has increased in size and earned its name of The Co-Lin Blue Wave Marching Band.



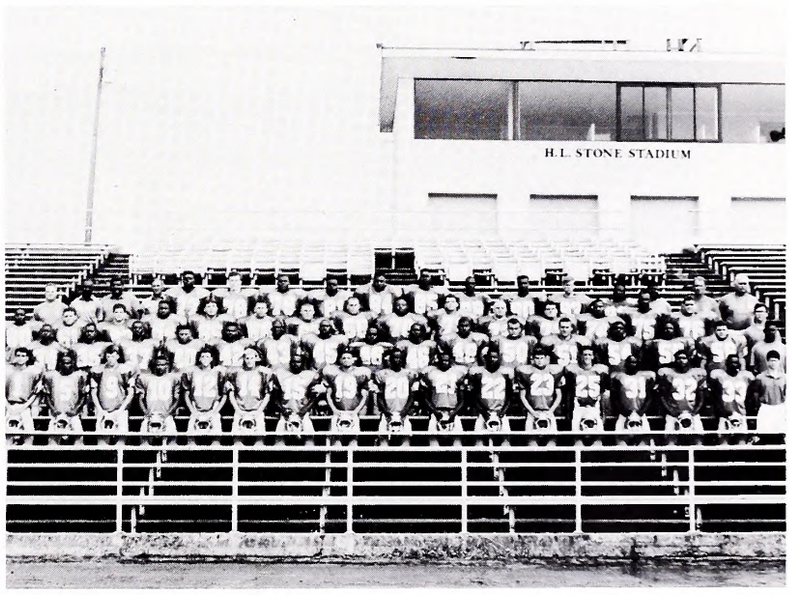
Pictured above is a Co-Lin Homecoming Court of the past.

Selecting the Homecoming Court is still an important part of college life today.

Women's basketball was popular even in the 1930's.

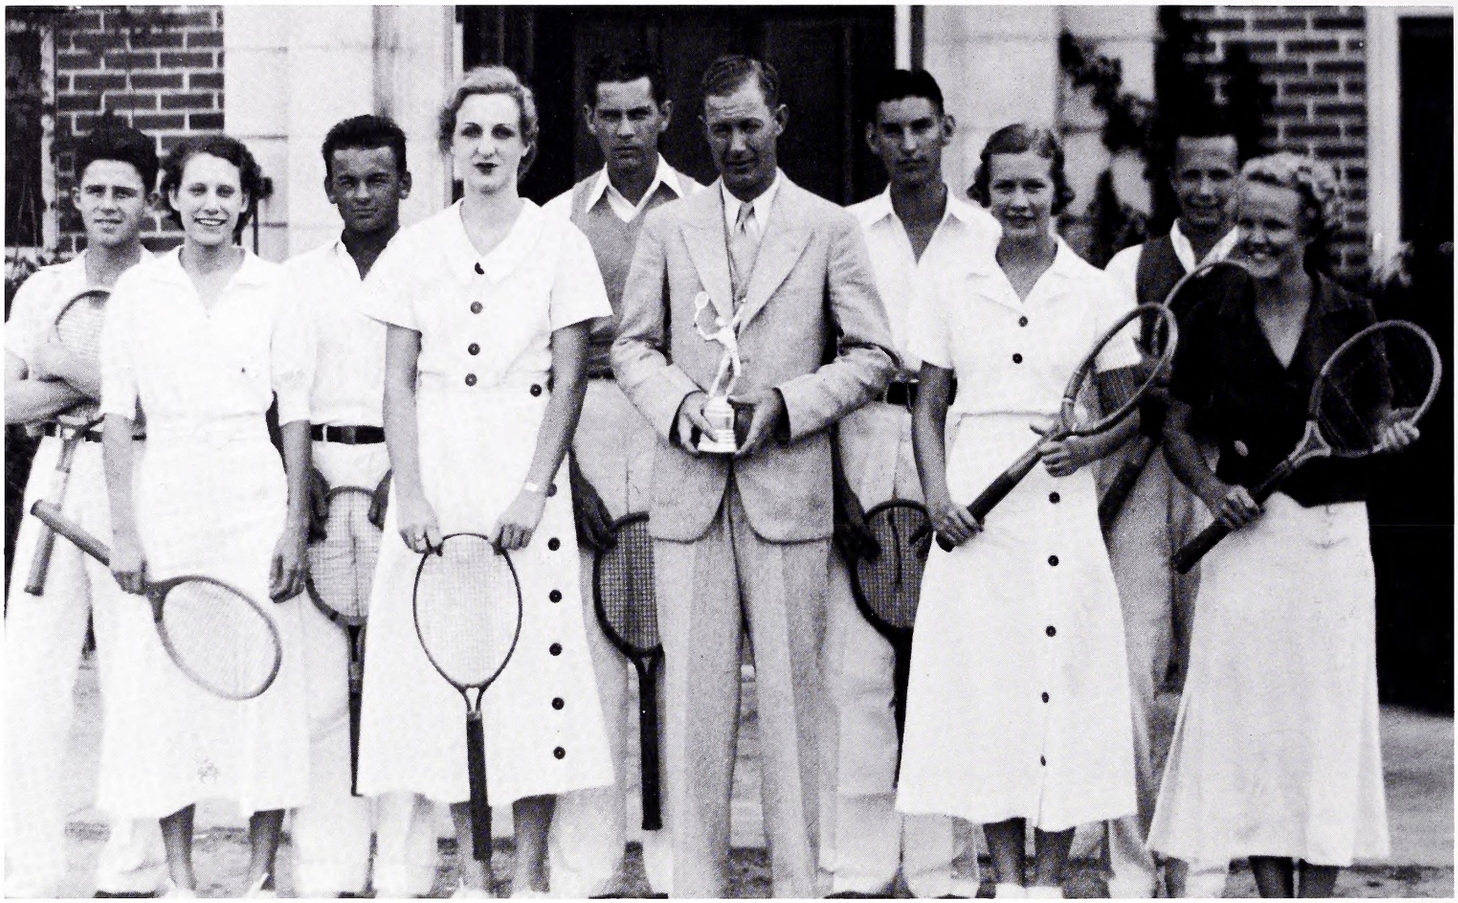
Today's Lady Wolves continue to play successfully.

This picture shows a Co-Lin football team who had recently won the Junior College Championship.



The record may not be the same today but the spirit is still high.

Continuing To Look At The Past



This co-ed tennis team of old displays their trophy.

Even during the 1950's the band got fired up.

These Co-Lin majorettes differ greatly from our modern day Colettes

Track was once considered a very important element of the athletic activities at Co-Lin. Pictured above is the girl's team from many years ago.

In the late 1930's the Men's Quartet, pictured at left, was a popular musical organization on campus, much like Sojourners, the concert choir, and others are today.

Co-Lin no longer has a glee club, but in the 1930's it was one of the favorite organizations on campus. Pictured at right are four of its members.

VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL BUILDING

TWENTY YEARS OF DEDICATION AND HARDWORK MAKES CO-LIN/NATCHEZ ...

Twenty years ago, Co-Lin/Natchez opened its doors to 433 students. Ten full-time and thirty-two part-time instructors were employed to teach courses in mathematics, English, and science. Because Co-Lin/Natchez was in its infancy, no permanent site had been selected for its campus. Some classes were taught at South Natchez Adams High School and at a building on South Canal Street, while others were taught at Duncan Park. Although conditions were not ideal, the faculty and administrators' spirits and morale were high as they strove to make Co-Lin/Natchez a success. In the fall of 1973, the college was moved to the old Central school building located east of Washington, and there it remained until the summer of 1981. In 1980 school officials learned that the state was planning to run a new highway right through the middle of the school. They were told that they had to find a new location for the campus. That new location became the old Washington Consolidated school building. The graduation ceremony for the 1980-81 school year was held in the auditorium of the school and a month later classes were being taught at this new site. Today Co-Lin still occupies this building. The year of 1988 brought a couple of important changes to the school. The Vocational-Technical Building was opened on Beltline and Copiah-Lincoln Junior College became Copiah-Lincoln Community College. Today Co-Lin/Natchez is bursting at the seams. The student population has grown dramatically. This increase has lead to overcrowding both in the classrooms and in the parking lot. Faculty, staff, and administration, as well as students, are looking forward to the day when the Washington Campus will be able to move to a new, larger, and permanent site on Beltline. As Co-Lin/Natchez moves into the twenty-first century, it remains proud of its past achievements and optimistic about its future success because as Dean Thornton remarks, "what makes Co-Lin work is dedication and hard work."

"At Co-Lin/Natchez, instructors have the opportunity to know and get involved with their students and work with them on a one-on-one basis."

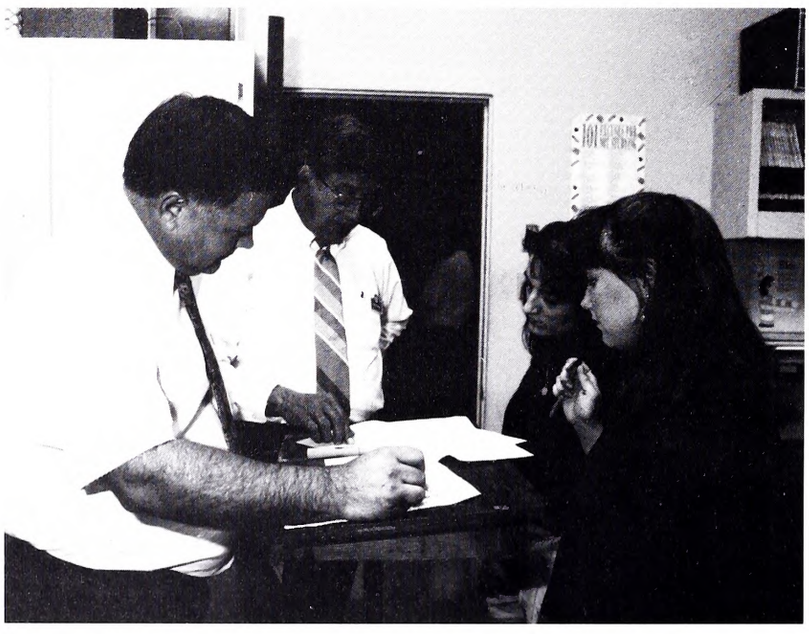
John T. Bullen

TOO LEGIT TO QUIT!

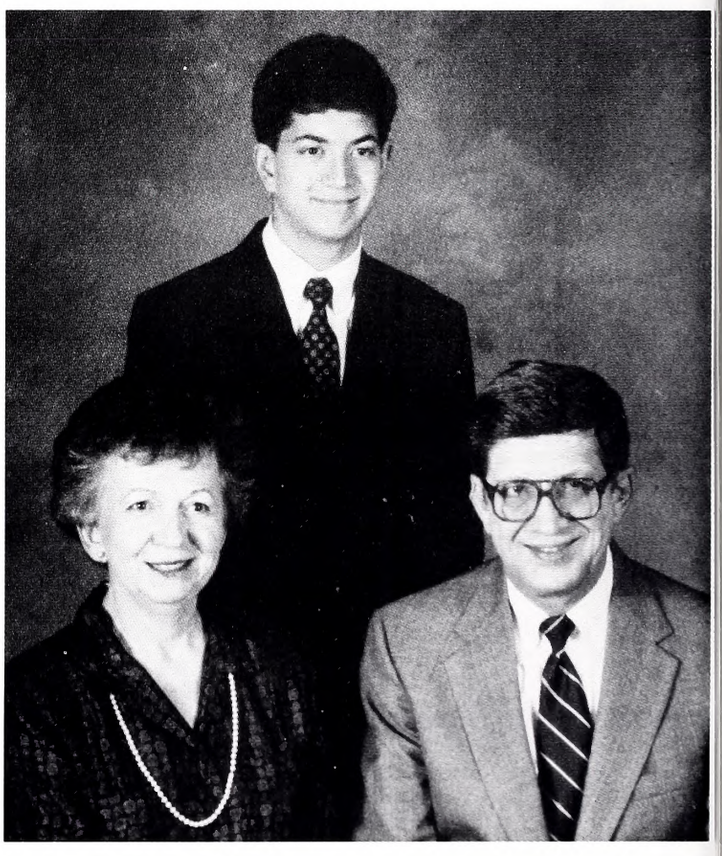
Travis Thornton Associate Dean Natchez Campus

Travis Thornton joined Copiah-Lincoln Community College as Associate Dean in charge of the Natchez campus in July, 1990. Prior to coming to Copiah-Lincoln, he served as Dean of Student Affairs at Mississippi Delta Community College in Moorhead for 19 years. Dean Thornton holds a Masters Degree in Education from Mississippi College in Clinton and a Bachelors Degree in Education from Delta State University in Cleveland. He is an active member in various civic and political organizations and has served as president of the Mississippi School Counselors Association, Mississippi Junior College Counselors Association, Mississippi Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers, Kiwanis Club of Leland, Rotary Club of Moorhead, and Mississippi Delta Junior College Alumni Association. When Dean Thornton was asked about his goals for Co-Lin/Natchez, he responded by saying, "I'd like to see the college continue to grow within the community providing post-secondary education and cultural opportunities on an expanded basis." He added, "Co-Lin/Natchez is something the community can be proud of — and with justification. But whatever changes are necessary, whatever the needs are, we'll always be receptive. Co-Lin is here to serve the Natchez community."

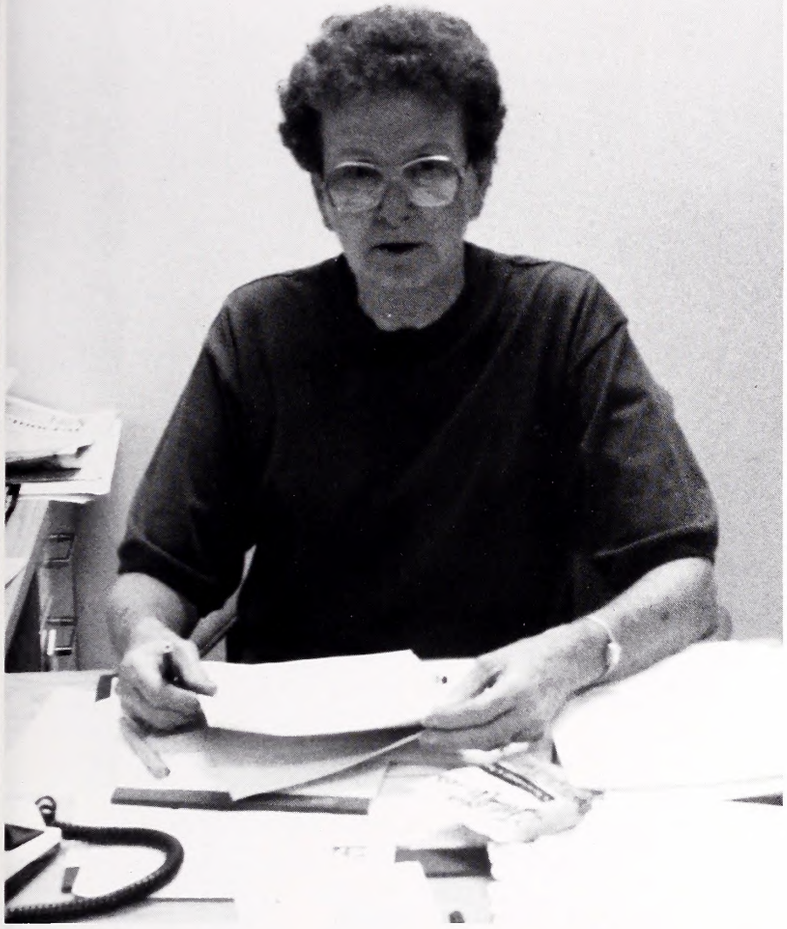
Graduation day always puts a smile on Dean Thornton's face.



Robert Smith and Dean Thornton counsel Shannon Mason and Rachel Cater during registration.



The Thornton family consists of Travis and Jenny Thornton and their son, Rob.



Emilye Sue Blackwell receives Natchez Trillium dedication

Sue Blackwell doesn't seem to be letting all that paperwork get her down.

The 1991-92 Natchez section of the Trillium is dedicated to Emilye Sue Blackwell, a respected and dedicated employee of Co-Lin. Mrs. Blackwell, along with Mrs. Sherri Lamond, teaches the Practical Nursing Program at Beltline. She has forty-four years of nursing experience, including eight years at Co-Lin.

Mrs. Blackwell is a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi with an Associate of Arts degree in nursing. She has done additional study at Northwestern University in Natchitoches, Louisiana, Alcorn State University, the University of Southern Mississippi and the Diploma School of Nursing.

Mrs. Blackwell is regarded as a master teacher in her field. Recently she was recognized as an outstanding educator at the Lamplighter Project held at Meridian Community College. According to Donna Martello, Associate Dean for Vocational-Technical Education, "ninety-five percent of the graduates of the LPN program under her supervision have passed the state board exam." Many of her students appreciate having her as their instructor remarking that, "she is concerned with everyone learning," that her "ability to combine book knowledge to practical knowledge makes learning easier," and that "the most effective thing in class is being able to ask questions if we don't understand."

Sue Blackwell is married to Arthur H. Blackwell and the mother of two children, Serece and Bubba. In her spare time, she enjoys arts and crafts and needlepoint.

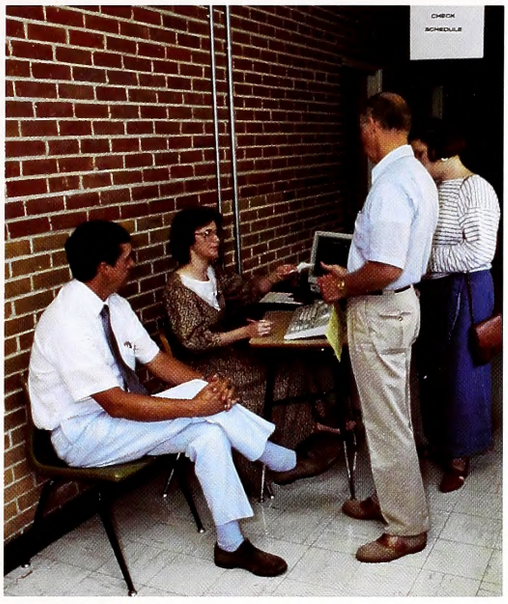
Sue Blackwell has been a valued employee at Natchez since 1984.

Linda Flynn and Becky Nevill are getting students, Dana McGiveran, Kim Montpelier, Nicole Lavergne, Sherry Martin and Denise Knapik ready to take their mug shots for their ID card.

Anna Loftin, Thomas Myers, and Carrie Martin, and Carol Felton are waiting to hear the grim news on how much tuition will cost them, but Cathy Wooten and Judy Case have good news it's not as expensive as they think it is.

Brandi Brentz looks on as Joey Paul hands Patrick Poole his class schedule and Jill Nicholson seems to be wondering if her schedule needs a change.

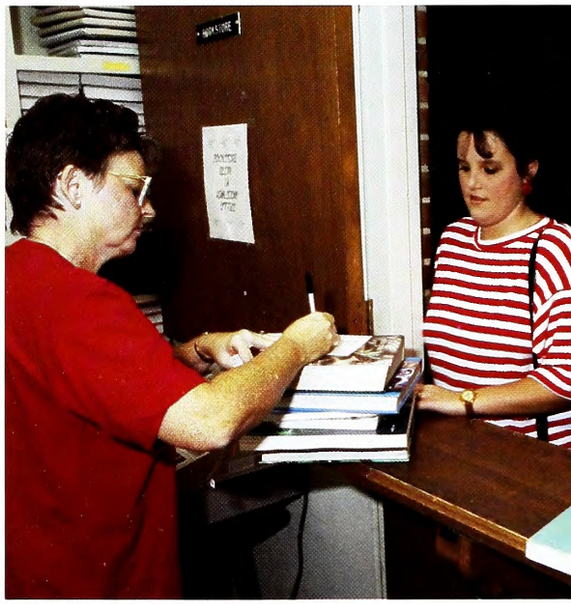
Oh! Oh! What a relief it is!



Gung ho! Last minute schedule check! Everything is in tip-top shape for Kenneth Moss and Monica McDonough, according to Dan Dykes and Sheryl Montgomery.

Gerri Brown and Jo Hinton were caught working hard at getting decals issued to Marie Martin, Mary McGehee, and Nan McCall.

Fall registration brings for many students the excitement of beginning a new school year but it can also bring with it stress of standing in long lines. Because of the continued growth of Co-Lin, the registration lines in previous years have been extremely long. This prompted Sandra Davidson, Director of Admissions, to make some changes in the registration process. Instead of having a "first come, first serve" policy, students whose last names ended with a particular letter were requested to report for registration at specific times. When asked how successful the new process was, Mrs. Davidson replied, "Very successful. Students appreciate the smooth line of registration enough to offset the mild inconvenience of waiting until their turn to register." Student, Peggy Thomas agrees with Mrs. Davidson. She stated that "registration is faster and it eliminates overcrowding in the halls."



The long line is over for Edy McGraw. She looks on as Shirley Comegys checks her class schedule to make sure she has all her books for class.

Roy Shelby, Mike Pevey, and Josie Anderson were kept busy assisting students in making all the right choices as they registered for classes.

Lights! Camera! Action!

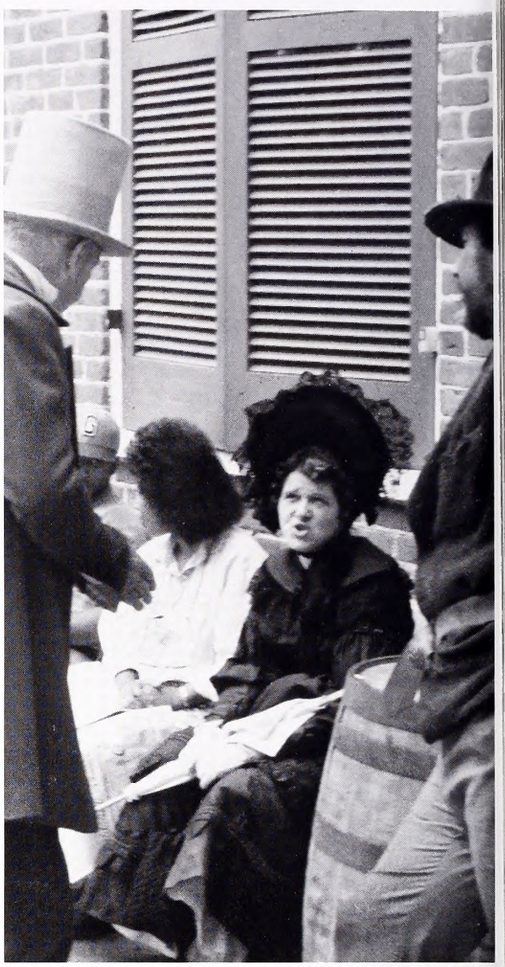
Hollywood Comes to Natchez

Hollywood came to Natchez in October in the form of The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. Trillium staff photographer, Eric Glidden and staff member, Denise Sanderford were not only able to get exclusive behind the scenes footage of the filming but they were also able to get an interview with film director, Stephen Sommer. When asked why Natchez was chosen as one of the filming sites for the movie, Sommer remarked, "We selected Natchez because of its beautiful scenery, its antebellum homes, and the availability of the river and the paddle wheelboat." Other cities considered for filming sites were Vicksburg, Port Gibson and Charleston, South Carolina, he said. In Natchez, scenes were filmed at Stanton Hall, Rosalie, Natchez Under the Hill, and Historic Jefferson College.

Crew member, Paige Sibley, arrived in town during the last two weeks of July to begin hiring locals as extras for the film. Local residents also got to rub shoulders with actors, Jason Robards and Elijah Woods who portrayed Huck Finn in the film.

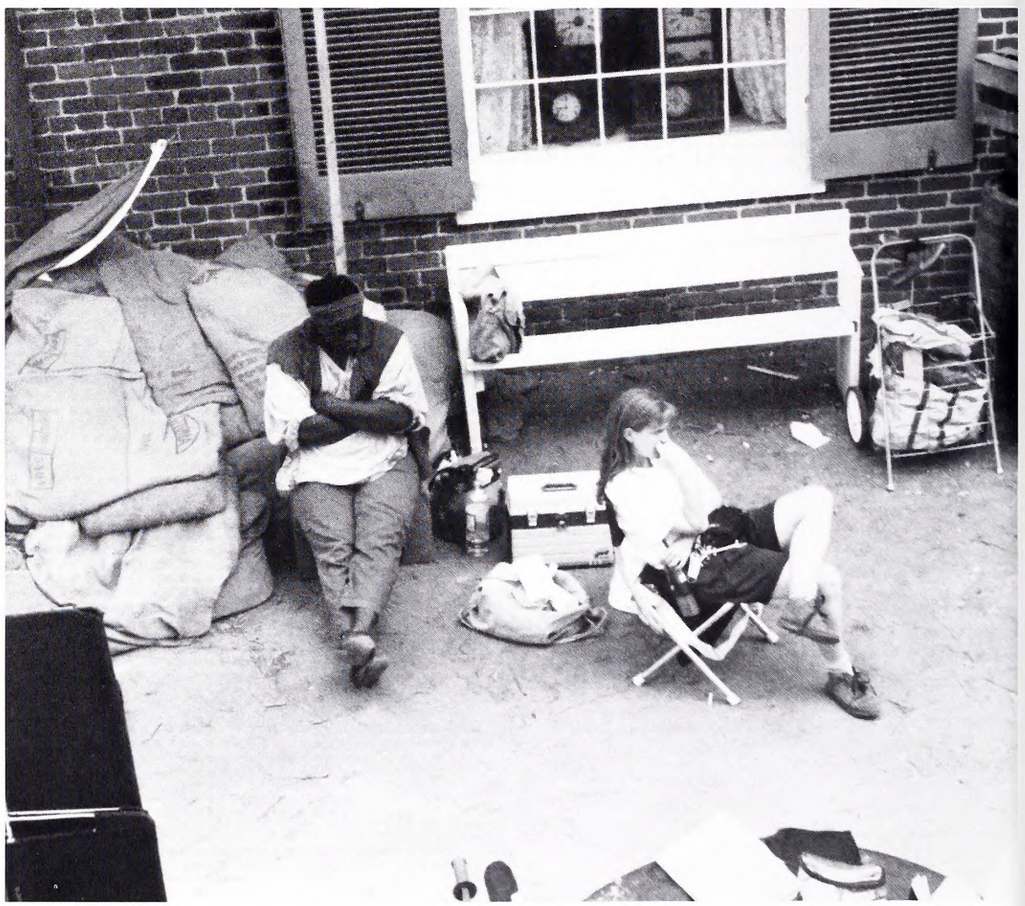
The construction and remodeling of Jefferson College was also begun in July. Because filming was not allowed inside Stanton Hall, one of the dormitories at the college was constructed to look exactly like the kitchen in Stanton Hall. Other renovations included converting another one of the dormitories into a church and mortuary. The church was on one side of the building and the mortuary on the other side. The colleges eating hall was altered to look like a clock shop. A saloon and the front of a two-story home was also built.

The filming of the movie at Jefferson College in October spilled over to the Co-Lin's Washington site. The filming crew used the auditorium on campus day and night for costume changes, storage, and meetings. Sometimes filming didn't end until two o'clock in the morning. "As a show of appreciation for the use of the auditorium, the crew donated $500 to the Co-Lin foundation," according to Dean Travis Thorton.



Between scenes, some members of the cast take a brief break to chat.

This sign speaks for itself.



This appears to be a good time to sit back, relax, and see what's going to happen next.

Looks can be deceiving. What may look like a two-story house is only the front frame of the house.

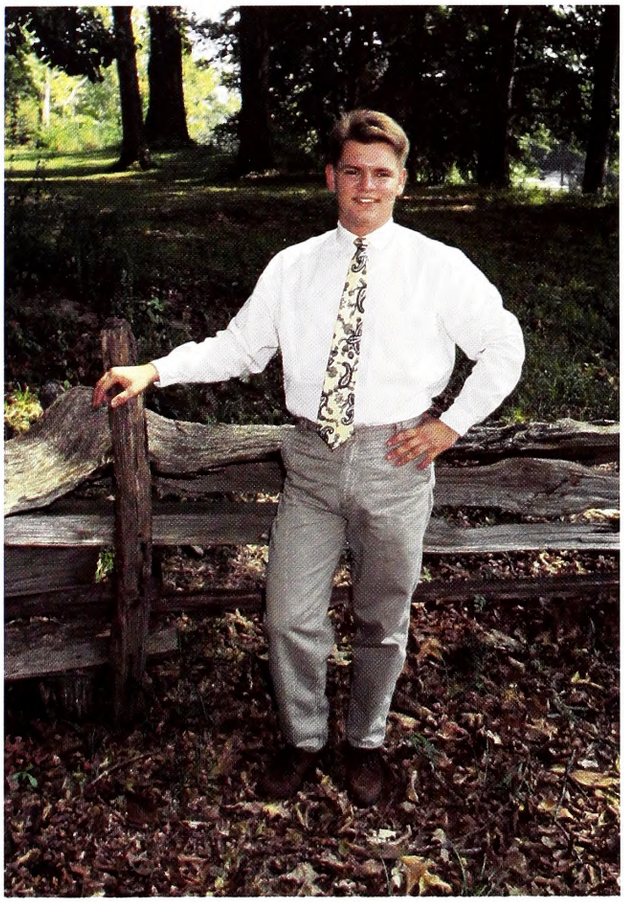
Staff photographer, Eric Glidden was up at one o'clock in the morning capturing this scene for the yearbook.

Locals were hired to help construct some of the buildings used in the filming.

One of the buildings that had to be constructed was a saloon.

MR. AND MISS CO-LIN/NATCHEZ

John Smith



Mr. Co-Lin, John Smith, is the son of Barbara and Terry Smith of Natchez. He is a medical technology major and plans to continue his education at the University Medical Center in Jackson. John works at Johnson Hardware store as a Parts Manager. He is also a sergeant and Bradley Commander in the National Guard. John is an honor student and was elected as freshman class favorite last year.

Kimberly Smith

Miss Co-Lin, Kimberly Smith, is the daughter of Vicki and Marcus Holland, and the wife of Mr. Co-Lin, John Smith. She is an occupational therapy major who plans to continue her education at the University Medical Center in Jackson. Kimberly is vice-president of Phi Theta Kappa, a sophomore Homecoming Maid, and a recipient of the Annette West Donnan Memorial Scholarship. She is also an honor student.

SOPHOMORE FAVORITES

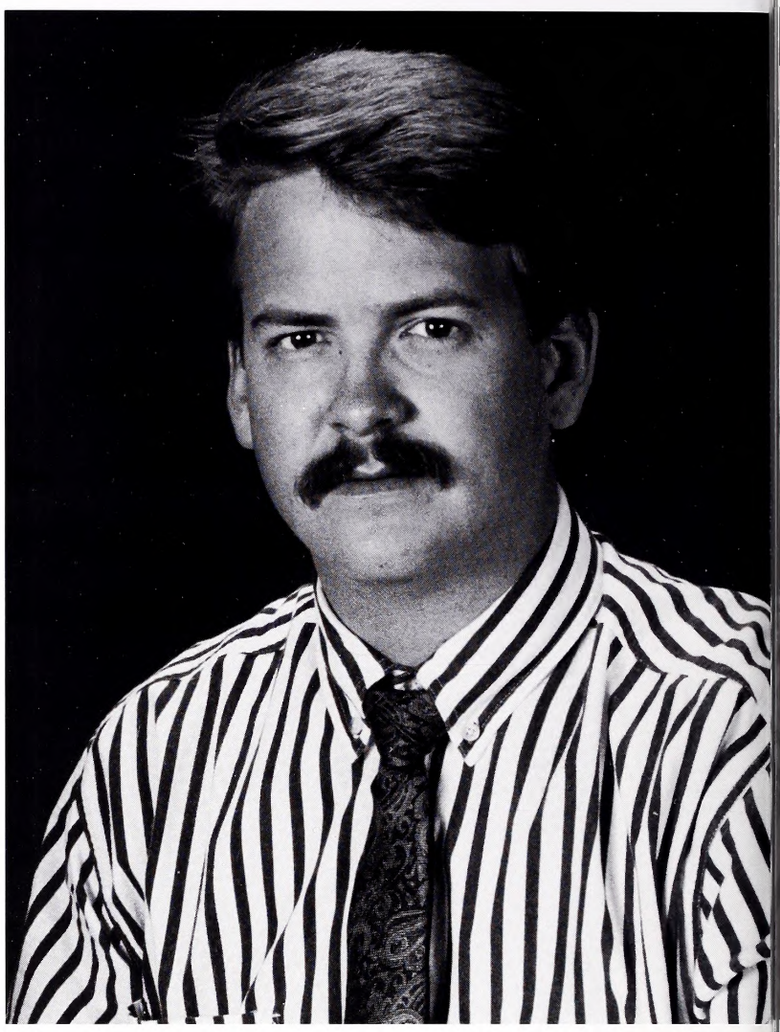
Vanessa Alexander (left), a microcomputer information processing major, is a reporter for Phi Beta Lambda. Bridget Breithaupt, an accounting major, is president of Phi Theta Kappa and Circle K, secretary/treasurer of the Student Government Association, September Student of the Month and a math and English tutor. Michael Blalock, an electronic major, is president of Vocational/Industrial Clubs of America, vice-president of the Student Government Association and a member of Phi Theta Kappa. Cindy Robinson, a microcomputer information major, is a member of Phi Theta Kappa and Phi Beta Lambda and is a work-study student. Barbara Smith, a microcomputer information processing major, is a member of Phi Theta Kappa and Phi Beta Lambda and is the associate editor of Co-Lin/N-Sights. Chris Sturdivant, an electronic communications technology major, is vice-president of Vocational/Industrial Clubs of America.

FRESHMAN FAVORITES

Douglas Tillman (left), a criminal justice major, plans to work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Erica Ellis, a nursing major, is a member of the Student Hospitality and Recruitment organization and Circle K. She plans to continue her education at Dillard University in New Orleans, Louisiana. Brad Taylor, a business administration major, plans to become a successful businessman and a US senator one day. Lashon Roy, a radiology major, plans to one day work in a large metropolitan hospital.

Hall of Fame

Michael Dean Blalock



A communication/repair major, Michael Dean Blalock is a President's List Scholar. He is president of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America and vice-president of the Student Government Association. Blalock is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1992-1993. He was elected sophomore class favorite for the 1992-1993 school year and named Student of the Month for October, 1992. Blalock is from Centreville and is the son of Clarence and Carolyn Blalock.

Bridget J. Breithaupt

A business administration major, Bridget J. Breithaupt is active in clubs at the Natchez Campus. She keeps busy as president of both Circle K and Phi Theta Kappa. She is also secretary-treasurer of the Student Government Association. Breithaupt is listed in Who's Who Among Students in Universities and Colleges for 1992-1993. She was elected sophomore class favorite for the 1992-1993 school year and named Student of the Month for September, 1992. Breithaupt is also a tutor in the Learning Center. She is from Natchez and is the daughter of Billy and Carolyn Breithaupt.

Melonie Lynn Collins

A business major, Melonie Lynn Collins stays on the Dean's List. She is a member of Student Hospitality and Recruitment and Phi Theta Kappa. She holds an ACT Scholarship. Collins is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1992-1993. She is a work-study student in the Admissions Office. Collins is from McCall Creek and is the daughter of the Reverend Darnell and Mrs. Cynthia Collins.

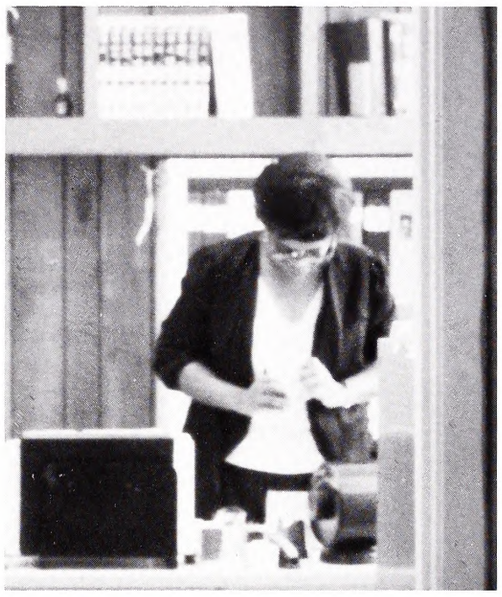
The Hub of Student Activity

Student Support Services (SSS), along with the Learning Resource Center (LRC) provide invaluable services to students. SSS was created 12 years ago to give assistance to handicapped, low income, and/or first generation college students. Ten years later the LRC was created to provide services for the entire student body. SSS director is Bettye Mullen. Ms. Mullen works with a dedicated and hardworking staff of three — Linda Flynn, new director of the LRC; Pinkey Stewart, SSS counselor; and Laura Winston, secretary to Ms. Mullen.

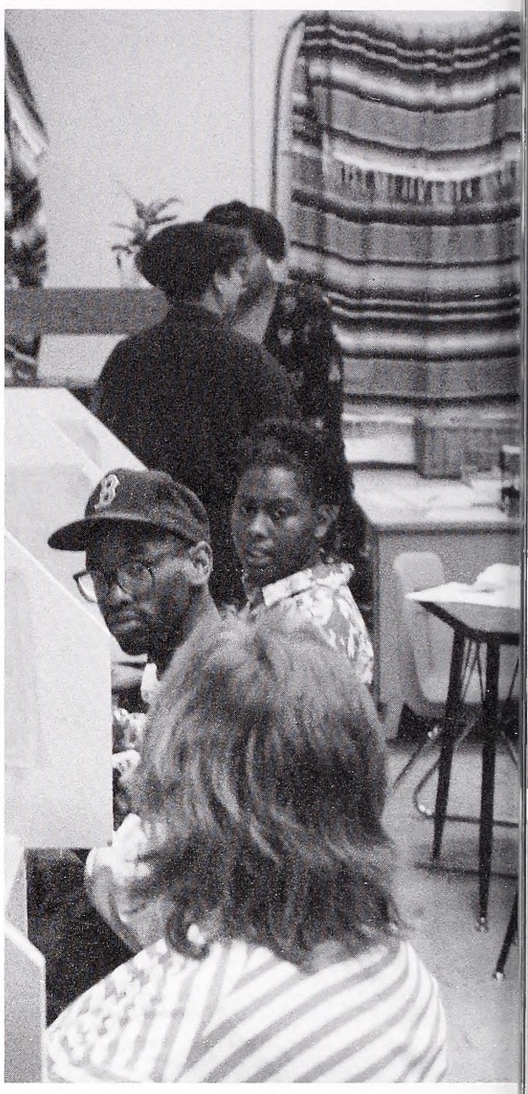
According to Ms. Mullen, the LRC and SSS assist "anywhere from 30 to 50 students" on a daily basis. These students receive assistance in development and applications of study techniques, reading and math skills, and assistance in other disciplines upon request. Ms. Mullen adds that "knowledgeable tutors in all areas of math, science, and business, as well as in Spanish and speech have been employed" to help students with their assignments.

In keeping up with the demand for computer literate students, SSS and the LRC plan to acquire in the near future several new computers, video cassette recorders, televisions, laser printers and software programs. Four new computer stations and a copier have already been added to the area.

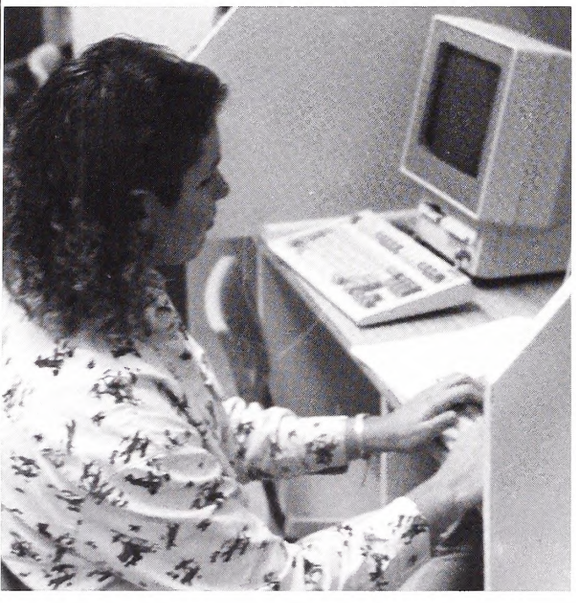
When the Center opened just two years ago, there were only six IBM computers and some "antiquated" pieces of audio-visual equipment for student use. Since that time, both SSS and the LRC have acquired some of the most modern technological equipment on campus. Today, both rival the library as the hub of student activity.



Laura Winston, a new face on campus, is Ms. Bettye Mullen's secretary in the Learning Center.

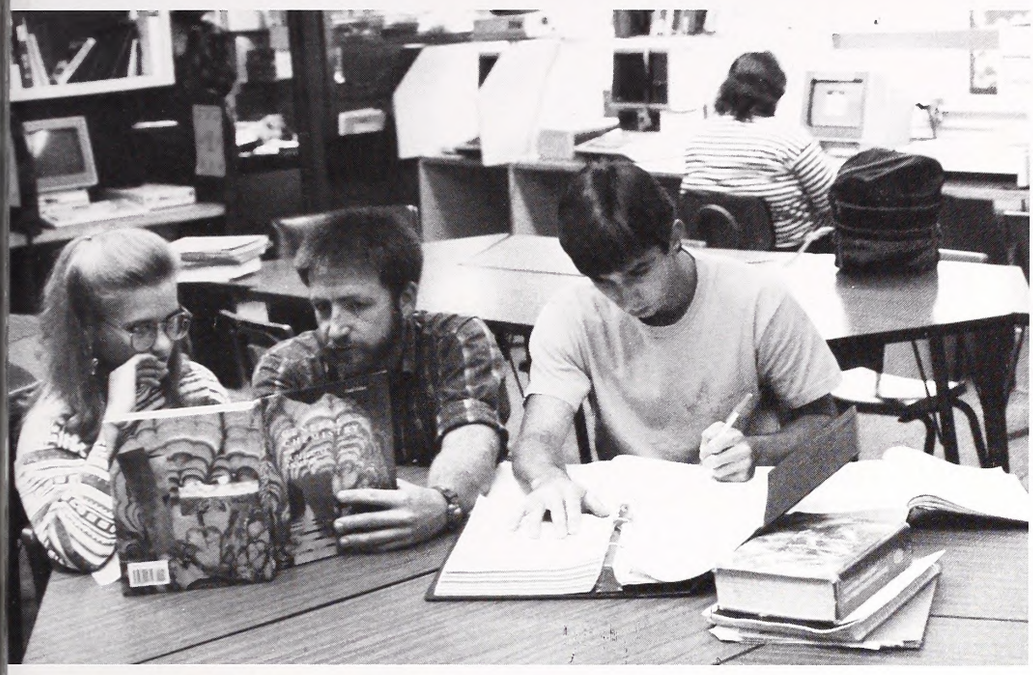


Leonard Washington and Tina Davis use the computers in the LRC to complete their homework assignments, while Laura Winston and Pinkey Stewart go over the schedule for make-up tests.



Beth Sewald can always be found in the LRC either typing on one of the computers or tutoring students in various disciplines.

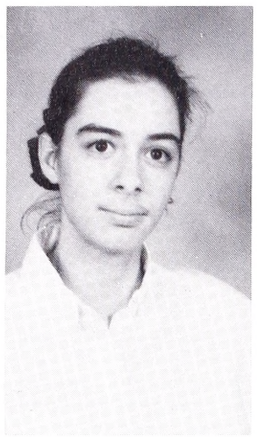
Barbara Nations tutors Lucy Johnson on the fundamentals of accounting.

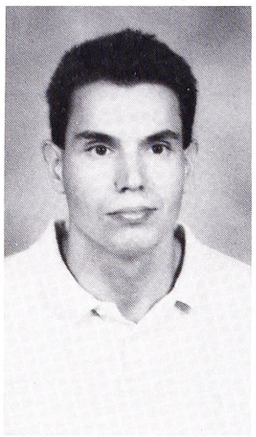


Tim Yielding tutors Sarah Eidt while Beau Britt works on his chemistry II.

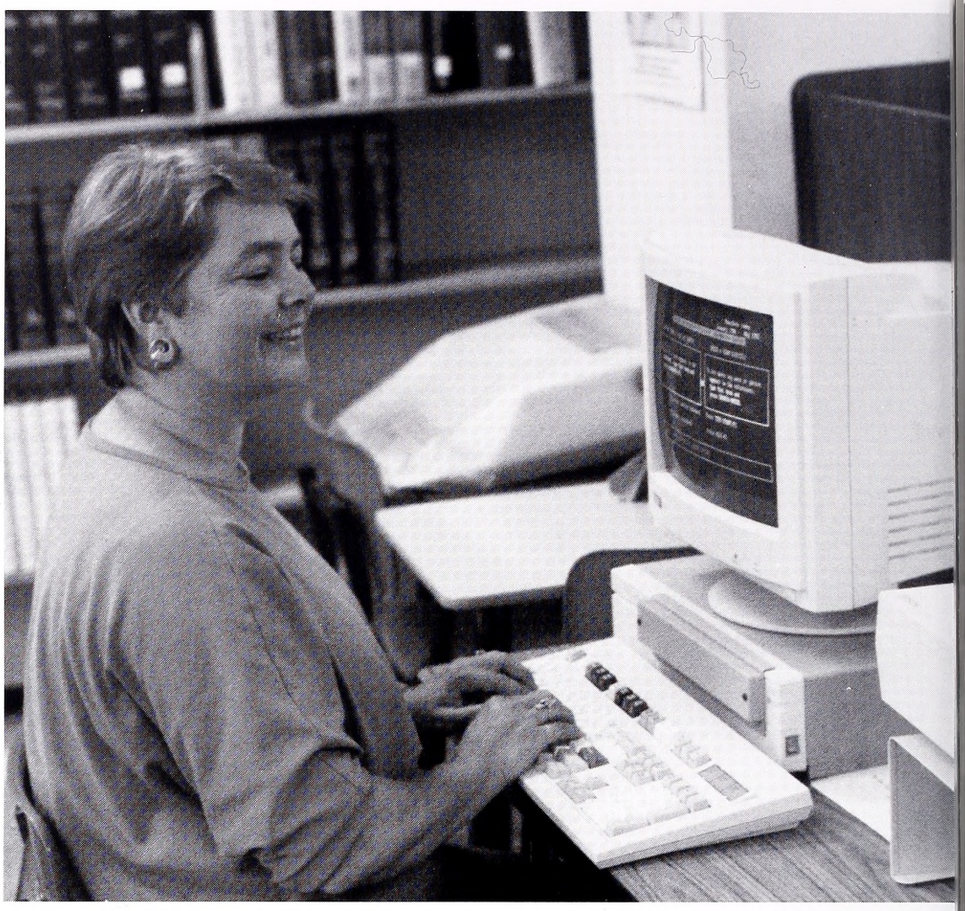
Diane Willard is taking advantage of the Learning Center VCR and TV to get ahead in her math class.

Bettye Mullen has served as director of SSS for the past six years.





Even though Melanie Collins, Eduardo Flechas, Sheila Huff, and Shelly Junkin missed out on the group photo for Who's Who winners, the photographer was able to capture individual shots of them.



Barbara Smith, a microcomputer information processing major from Natchez placed third in the 1991 PBL Leadership Conference, is a member of PTK, a sophomore class favorite who made the Dean's List, and is editor of N-Sights.

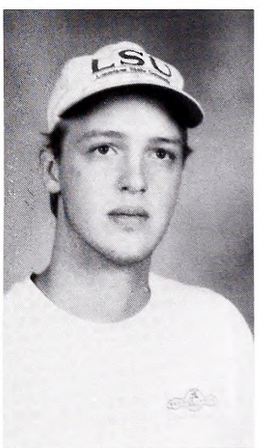
Who's Who Among Students In American Universities And Colleges

The 1992-93 edition of the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of twenty-seven students selected from the Natchez campus. All students named for this honor were nominated by faculty members. These students were chosen based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success, according to Dean Travis Thornton.

We congratulate the winners of Who's Who for their outstanding work.

Melanie Collins and Cindy Phillips share the Xerox machine in the library.

Peggy Thomas interviews Dean Thornton for the Trillium. Thomas is a nursing major from Natchez, who enjoys walking and music and is a staff member of N-Sights and Trillium.



Guess who else missed out on the group shot for Who's Who? Rhonda Lewis, John Parks, and Evelyn Rourks.

CO
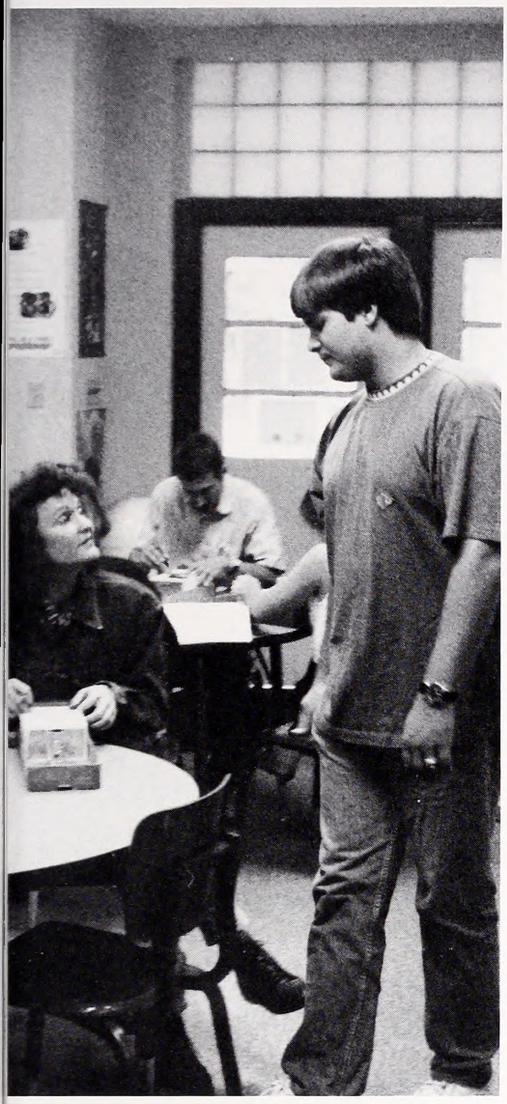
COPIAH-LINCOLN
COMMUNITY COLLEGE



The Many Faces of Co-Lin

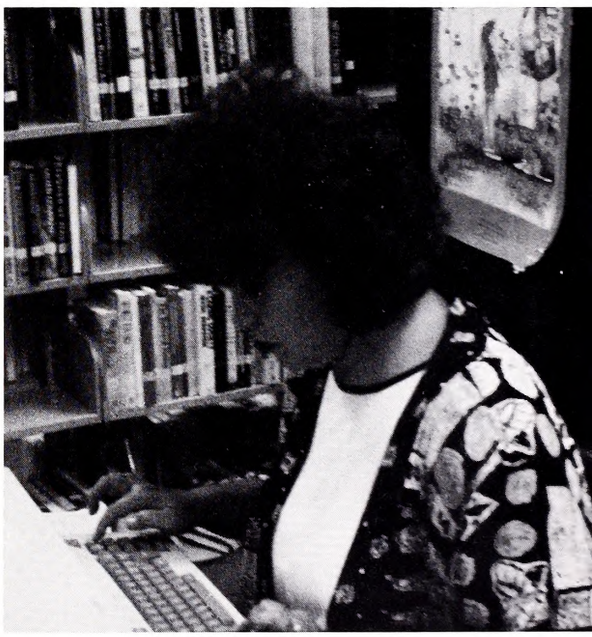
The 635 students attending the Washington and Beltline Campuses are both traditional and nontraditional students. Their ages range from 17 years old to 73 years old, with average age being 26.29. All of our students are commuters. Some come from as far away as Jackson and Woodville, and some are from as near as Washington. Some work full-time, others, part-time. Some have children and some even take classes with those children. Some are married and share a textbook or two with their mates. Some are enrolled in academic courses, others in technical, vocational, and/or special interest courses.

Dedicated administrators, faculty, and staff encourage students to reach their full potential. Instructors challenge students both inside and outside the classrooms and they are there to "lend an ear" or "lend a helping hand" and offer advice when there are difficult choices to be made. Freshman Delia Reeves agrees. She states, "I graduated in 1985 and haven't been in school since then. So I was terrified I wouldn't be able to handle (college), but with the help of the counselors and the teacher, I got adjusted quicker than I had expected. Now I'm really excited about my next classes that I'll be taking. I have confidence to do well all through my college years. Thanks to the people at Co-Lin."

Though the faces are many and interests are diverse, the Co-Lin family shares a very special relationship. And while it true that the college is growing in numbers, it is still small enough so that everyone knows and cares about the faces they encounter in the hallways and in the classrooms.

Even though Patricia Rogers appears busy researching her English paper, she still finds time to give Jeff Cupit her undivided attention.

Isn't it obvious Denise Sanderford is a bibliophile.



Mr. Taylor's economics class, concentrating on classroom assignments, were caught off-guard as photographer, Eric Glidden made a surprise attack.

Gwen McCalip uses the typewriter in the library to put the finishing touches on the exam for her psychology class.

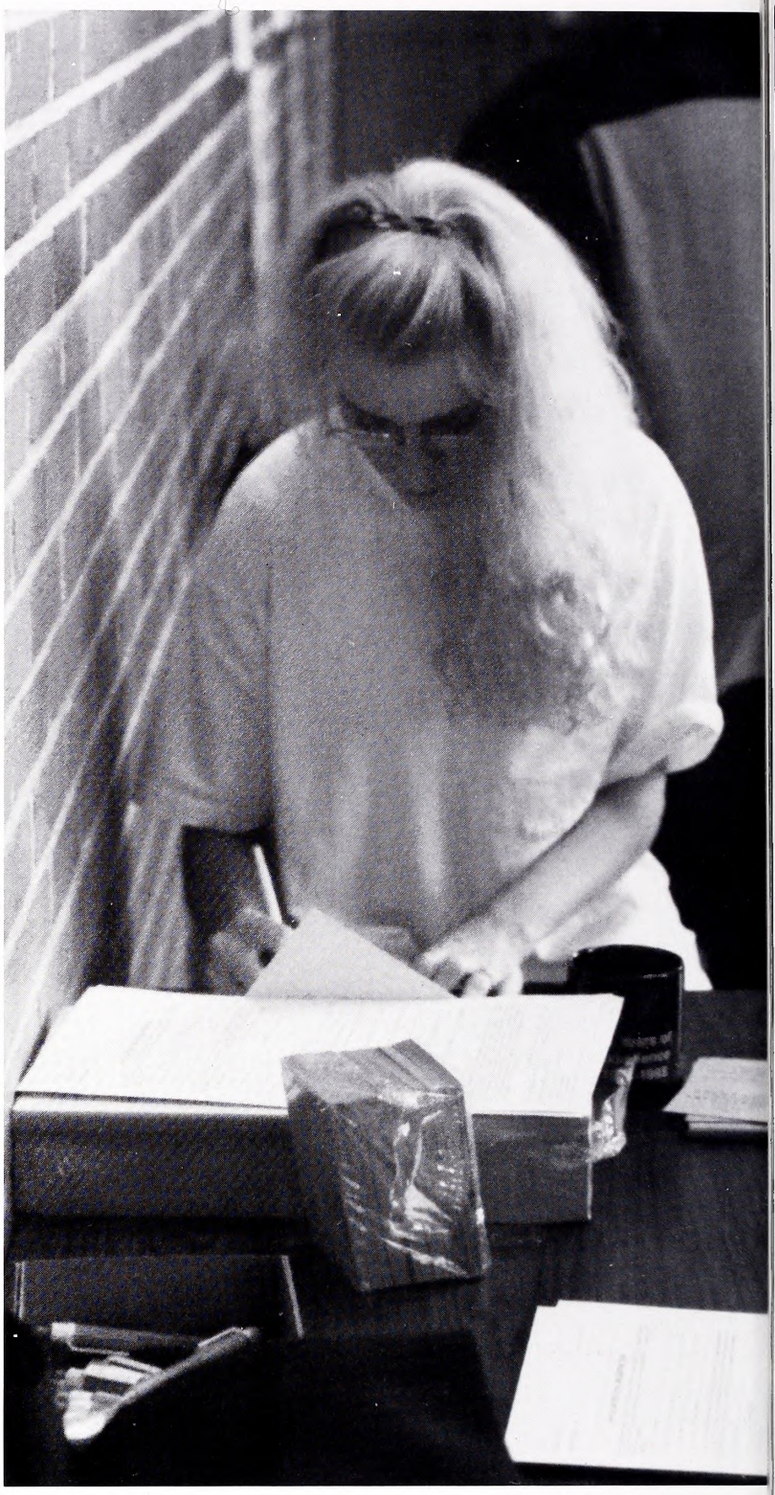
Taking Charge

Student Government Association

SGA serves not only the legislative body for the student population but it also acts as a liaison between students and faculty. It is involved in many campus and community events. An election was held in September for officers. In October SGA members held voter registration on campus in preparation for the November Presidential's election. In November a drawing for two turkeys was held.

December was another busy month for SGA. Members hosted the annual Christmas party for students, faculty and staff. Proceeds from the turkey drawing in November were used to fund the event. Also in December another fund-raising event was held. A gigantic stocking was stuffed with all types of goodies and raffled off to a lucky student holding the correct ticket. Tracy King was that student.

At Spring registration, members served hot chocolate and coffee to thirsty students, faculty and staff. During the Spring semester the group made plans to enter its float in the Mardi Gras parade held in Natchez during the month of February. The group also made plans to host a luncheon for the Co-Lin graduates in May.



Micheal Blalock listened attentively while George Williams revealed who he was going to vote for in the Presidential election.

Denise Sanderford was among the twenty students who participated in the voters registration drive held on campus.

Bettye Mullen tips her hat and smiles for the camera because she was fully prepared for this shot.

Giving the Gift of Life and Love

Circle K

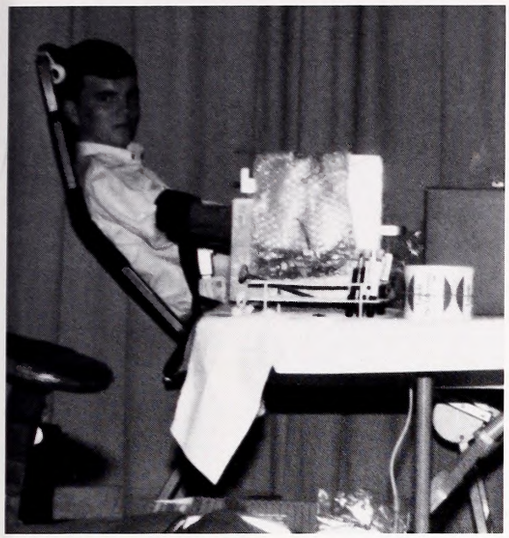
Students took time away from their busy schedules to make a small, yet significant contribution to the welfare of humankind. In its annual blood drive, Circle K was responsible for the donation of 45 units of blood to the Mississippi Blood Service. Everyone participating in the blood drive received free T-shirts. At the end of the day, names were drawn for prizes.

In November, the group traveled to Hinds Community College and Millsaps College in Jackson. At Millsaps, members participate in a CKI rally. Following the rally, they lend a helping hand to the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, who was gathering non-perishable food items for the Mississippi Food Network.

Renee Rodriguez decided she rather not look at what was happening to her arm.

"There, there, it won't hurt" says Stephen Green to Cindy Phillips.

Circle K's annual blood drive took place during the month of October.



Students like Ginger Coco cared enough to donate blood.

Sharing a Smile and a Friendly Hello

SHARE

SHARE members were kept busy throughout the fall and spring semesters fulfilling their club duties by hosting several events held on campus and in the Natchez community. With friendly smiles and cheerful "hellos", they greeted high school students and their parents at the annual college fair held in the Natchez Convention Center.

In December, they welcomed those individuals attending the news conference held at the Vo-Tech building honoring the T. Warring Bennetts. Later on that month they also greeted visitors who attended a lecture held on campus Statehood Day. In May they not only served as hosts for the graduation exercise, but they also recruited high school students for Co-Lin/Natchez.

During College Fair night, Jenna Tilghman spoke with teens and their parents about the different groups and organizations found on the Natchez campus.

Taking Deep Breaths

Respiratory Care Students

The Respiratory Care Technology Program is a new but very popular program on campus. According to Richard Waltman, Respiratory Care Instructor, the program prepares students to administer respiratory care under the direction of a physician, evaluate the patient's progress, and make recommendations for respiratory therapy.

The instructional program is designed to allow graduates to qualify for the National Board for Respiratory Care examination. Graduates of the one year program are awarded the Certificate of Respiratory Therapy and may take the exam to be a Certified Respiratory Therapy Technician. On completion of the two year program the student is eligible for the Registry Exams, resulting in Registered Respiratory Therapist (RRT).

Career opportunities may include Staff Therapist, Neonatal Therapist, Pulmonary Function Technician, Therapist Supervisor, Technical Director, and Department Director.

Kathy Johnson, Steve Stockstill, and Laura Garner check their equipment to make sure it is functioning properly.

Richard Waltman, Respiratory Instructor at Co-Lin/Natchez and Joe Hudson, Director of the Respiratory Care Unit at Jefferson Davis Hospital, are tops in their field.

Waltman instructs students Hank Cooley and Jimmy McManus on how to properly use some of the respiratory equipment found at Jefferson Davis Hospital.

Hob Nobbing at Gail's Place:

The Hob Nob

With its warm relaxed atmosphere the Hob Nob is the perfect place for making new friendships and cultivating old ones. Students congregate here to study together, to have refreshment, or to simply relax and socialize. Every day they are greeted by the smiles and the "can I help you" of Gail McGruder, the Hob Nob manager. McGruder became an employee of Co-Lin in 1975. She worked for Co-Lin until 1981 when the company, American Restaurant Association (ARA) took over operations of the Hob Nob. Nearly a year ago the Mississippi Valley Service replaced ARA. According to McGruder, "since then the Hob Nob has been painted and new equipment has been brought. A lot of changes have made and all for the better. We have a new food line. The prices are different but the sales are up, which makes the business prosper." The business has indeed prospered. McGruder, in November, received a certificate for "record breaking cash sales."

One suspects that students keep coming back for more not only because the food is good but also because it's nice to know your hamburger will be served with a smile.

Gail McGruder proudly displays her award for record breaking cash sales in the Hob Nob.

No Smoking in the Halls

Passive smoking can be hazardous to your health, according to medical research. One study has revealed that for every pack of cigarettes smoked by a smoker, the non-smoker, who shares his/her air space, smokes between three and five of those cigarettes. Because of the health concerns of nonsmokers, a no-smoking policy has been enacted at the Washington campus site.

No longer is smoking allowed in the halls and in the restrooms. Smoking is now only allowed in the Hob Nob student center, the auditorium's entrance foyer, and the outside entrances to the building.

A survey conducted on how students felt about the no-smoking policy, revealed that the majority of students polled agree with the policy. Tami Dossett said "I think the new smoking policy is a great relief to nonsmokers. The halls don't reak of smoke and you don't walk out of the building smelling like a cigarette."

Even though most students agreed with the no-smoking policy, many felt that the no-smoking areas should have also included the Hob Nob. Chaquita Jones remarked, "I feel that smokers should only be allowed to smoke in remote areas, not the Hob Nob because it is very small."

Stacey Monnin was among the minority of students who didn't like the policy. She said, "I think it's stupid. I honestly don't think smoke bothers nonsmokers that much." Whether you are a smoker or nonsmoker and whether you agree or disagree with the new smoking policy, it went into effect on November 2. "As a former smoker, I have compassion for smokers," Dean Thornton said, "but this policy is in line with what has been done all over the country in public buildings. The greater good must prevail."

Smoking has been outlawed in certain areas as can be seen by the sign on the ash tray that at one time could be found in the hallway.

Cast Your Ballots

For the very first time in their lives, many students cast their ballots for the President of the United States. Recently SGA, in conjunction with Fred Ferguson, Natchez Clerk of Courts, held a voters drive on campus. According to Polly Nettles, SGA president, "Between 18 and 20 students registered to vote during the voters drive."

In October, the Natchez Democrat visited the campus to question students about their choice for President. The mood and opinions of the students seemed to reflect the mood and opinions of the nation at that time. Many were still undecided about who they would vote for in November. Others knew exactly who they would vote for and why they would vote for him. Melvin Tillman declared that he was pushing for Clinton. He stated, "I feel we should give Clinton a chance to get in office and I know that once he gets into office he can make changes." Michael Blalock disagreed with Tillman's choice. He said that Clinton couldn't be trusted and that Bush has had his chance. He was going to support Perot. George Williams declared that he was going to support Bush for many reasons but the main one was that Bush didn't back abortions.

Whether students were for Bill Clinton, George Bush, or Ross Perot, or even if they were not quite sure who they would vote for, it was evident from their responses that come election day, they would indeed cast their ballot. Mike Blalock, Bridget Breithaupt and Melvin Tillman didn't mind sharing their political views with a reporter from the Natchez Democrat.

Is There An Author in the House?

Indeed there is an author in the house and her name is Carolyn Vance Smith. Smith has written numerous Natchez based books and articles. She, along with Sim C. Dallon and David G. Sansing, are authors of the book, Natchez: An Illustrated History. Recently she and Laura Bailey Parks co-authored the book, Natchez by Design: Architectural Motifs in Stitchery from Nine Natchez Mansions. When asked where she gets her ideas for her books and articles, she said that she listens to what people say they find interesting and gauges what they will be willing to buy. Currently, Smith has tentative plans to do a book based on the ghosts of historic Natchez.

Along with being a noted author, Smith also teaches English and writing classes and for three years she has served as co-chairperson of the Natchez Literary Celebration. When asked how she found time in her busy schedule to write she replied, "Well, I do it on weekends, after hours and during the summer. I don't teach in the summer; besides, everybody finds time to do what they want to do."

Carolyn Vance Smith has a very active and busy life as an English and writing instructor and a noted author.

A Gift That Keeps on Giving

Mr. and Mrs. T. Waring Bennett Sr. of Natchez have given Co-Lin/Natchez $20,000 for a scholarship fund given in honor of their son, U.S. Air Force Major Thomas Waring "Buddy" Bennett Jr. Bennett has been missing in action in Viet Nam, since December, 1972. The gift was presented in November at a news conference held at the Vo-Tech center. Receiving the donation for the school were Co-Lin's president Billy B. Thames and Natchez dean, Travis Thornton.

At the press conference Don Estes, Vice-President of Deposit National Bank and a high school classmate of Bennett Jr., gave a brief history of the Buddy Bennett Scholarship Fund. According to Estes, Bennett was both a graduate of Natchez High School and of Co-Lin/Wesson. He was also a graduate of Southern Mississippi University. He was born in 1942 and was shot down on his birthday 30 years later.

A scholarship honoring Bennett was set up in 1973 to foster good will between two area high schools, North Natchez and South Natchez; however, the scholarship money was left lingering after the schools merged over two years ago. Recently the scholarship was picked up again and supplemented by other donations from the community and topped off by the Bennetts who presented the scholarship fund to Co-Lin/Natchez.

Carolyn Vance Smith, a Co-Lin instructor and public relations director, was one of the many who agreed that the scholarship fund would have a positive effect on the school. She said, "There is a ripple effect the scholarship has for students because it is a gift that keeps on giving."

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett present the Buddy Bennett Scholarship Fund in the form of a check to Co-Lin. Reveiving the check for the school are President Billy B. Thames and Dean Travis Thornton.

Growing Pains

One of the signs of success is growth, but while growth can bring smiles of joy, it can also bring grimaces of pain. Co-Lin/Natchez is presently experiencing those growing pains. The increase in our school's student populations has lead to overcrowding conditions on the Washington campus.

Two separately conducted polls — one by N-Sights, the school's newspaper and one by Trillium — revealed that while students had very positive things to say about the school's academic program, they were very critical of its physical facility.

Many students complained about the crowded classrooms, the crowded parking lot, the fact that the school has only one Learning Center and one library for both campuses, and the ten mile commute between both campuses.

Tammy Buckles, one of the students participating in the survey responded, "The campus and parking lot are so crowded that in the hallways, and in the classrooms people are just running into people. The parking lot is just crammed. Half of the time there are no places to park." Ellen Yates agreed with Buckles. She said, "Co-Lin needs more parking areas! Most of the time I have to park in the grass." Jeff Cupit was concerned about the Washington campus being too small to accommodate all the students.

Students, along with the school's administrators, faculty, and staff, believe that the solution to the problems involves building a new facility for the campus. Dean Thornton, in an interview with N-Sights, stated, "It's past time the Washington Site's academic classrooms, library, student center, and administrative offices were moved to newer campus facilities near Co-Lin's Voc-Tech campus on Beltline Road. Our current students deserve better. That move is top priority to me. We hope to get serious about this move in the coming months." So as we struggle to cope with our growing pains, we remind ourselves that if there is "no pain" there is "no gain". An increase in the student population has led to a decrease in available parking space.

Co-Lin — The Energizer

When SGA decided to enter a float in the Mardi Gras parade last spring, they had no problem coming up with the perfect theme. Bridget Breithaupt, president of SGA, said that it made perfect sense to them to draw the Energizer Bunny and use the theme from the Energizer battery commercial. When asked to explain why did it make perfect sense, she smiled and responded, "Isn't it obvious that Co-Lin like the Energizer battery keeps going and going and going" and she added, "It keeps getting better and better and better." Breithaupt also said that once you start going here you are really motivated to get involved with your classes and various school activities. George Williams, a first-year student, agreed with Breithaupt. He remarked, "Co-Lin is a new and exciting adventure for me. I never thought it would be so much fun and so much of a challenge."

So isn't it obvious, that if you are looking for that challenge in life, that motivating force, you should take a serious look at Co-Lin and get energized!

Carl Roberts and Beth Sewald assist SGA members, Tuttie Cater and Bridget Breithaupt as they put the finishing touches on the Mardi Gras float.

In Memory of Roy Lynn Freels

Roy Lynn Freels, Jr., 18, of Crystal Springs died September 4, 1992, at the Mississippi Baptist Medical Center, as a result of an automobile accident the week before.

He was a freshman at Copiah-Lincoln Community College and a graduate of Union Academy.

Services were held on September 7 at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church with interment in Poplar Springs Cemetery.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Freels of Crystal Springs; brother, James Herbert Freels of Crystal Springs; and sister, Krystal Diana Freels of Crystal Springs.

Keeping The Tradition Alive

The 1992-93 Trillium staff has attempted to capture the school year in photographs and words on "Keeping the Tradition Alive."

It seems only yesterday we were attempting to get the first photos taken. Our disappointment was the fact that over 600 students did not choose to have an individual photograph taken. But despite this fact we have done our best to capture the memories of '92-'93.
